AMERICANS HOLD NORTH OF VESLE

Vivid Description of American Attacks And Crossing of River Under Heavy Fire—Our Artillery Proves Great Aid.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

With the American Army on the Aisne-Vesle Front, Aug. 7. (9 p. m.)—Beating off repeated counter assaults and inflicting heavy losses upon the enemy, the Americans who forced crossings of the Vesle river between Fismes and Bazoches, dug in and clung tenaciously to their new positions.

Many strong German machine gun positions on the slopes north of the Vesle were wiped out of existence by hot and accurate fire of the American artillery.

American engineers distinguished themselves by working under a terrific fire from German guns, throwing bridges across the river for the infantry to cross upon.

The American attack was launched at 4:30 yesterday afternoon, following four hours of artillery preparations. The assault centers between Fismes and Bazoches.

Our right wing crossed the Vesle in considerable strength the machine gunners doing much havoc to the enemy.

The left wing was held up near Bazoches by heavy fire from the German artillery and machine guns.

By 10 o'clock the Germans had organized a counter attack. The attacking waves, which charged against the American positions at the foot of the plateau, were shattered and the Americans held firmly to their new positions. After an effective bombardment and under cover of a heavy fire from our machine guns, the left wing again went forward at dawn this morning, forcing another crossing of the river to the west of Fismes.

The American machine gunners again proved their worth during the past 48 hours, which saw crossings of the Vesle forced at two places between Fismes and Bazoches by our infantry.

The terrific pounding of our artillery, during the preliminary bombardment last night, was followed by annihilating fire from our guns which mowed down the enemy opposition, allowing several American detachments to get across the stream.

The Vesle at the point of crossing is 25 feet wide. The machine guns kept up their deadly spray of bullets while our advanced elements hastily dug themselves in on the narrow shelf of the embankment on the northern side of the stream.

These troops repulsed with severe losses heavy and repeated German counter attacks by which the Boches tried to throw the Americans back into the river.

In the fighting, which lasted from 10 o'clock till after midnight, our artillery fire proved very efficient, the gunners steadily shelling the road on the northern side of the Vesle along which the Americans were entrenched. This fire played havoc with the Germans.

While the fighting in this zone (right flank) was dying down and the Boches were removing their dead and wounded, the artillery on our left began paving the way for a new attack.

After brief shelling, which dislodged the Germans from many machine gun nests, which had been destroyed during yesterday's effort to cross the stream near Bazoches, the infantry lunged forward at daybreak.

Meanwhile American engineers, under the hottest possible enemy fire, had thrown light bridges across the Vesle and within a few minutes had reach the opposite (northern) bank.

Several detachments forced the enemy back across the high road which parallels the northern bank of the stream and established themselves quickly in preparation for an unexpected counter attack.

At the time this dispatch was written the counter attack had not been reported, but east of Fismes, some of our units were engaged in a sharp struggle with the enemy late this afternoon.

TREMPER SMASHED CROSSING GATES

J. H. Tremper's Auto Ran Through Both Gates at Early Hour This Morning—One Gate Carried and Dropped a Block Away.

Both of the Broadway railroad crossing gates were smashed at 3:30 o'clock this morning when an automobile driven by J. H. Tremper of No. 238 Fair street, crashed into the gates. One of the gates was carried a block away and dropped at the corner of Thomas street and Broadway. Mr. Tremper was either in a hurry to beat the train across the crossing or did not realize the gates were down. Both gates on the left hand side of Broadway going uptown were snapped cleanly off. New gates were installed in place later in the morning.

AMERICANS IN NEW OFFENSIVE

Units of Our Army Are Brigaded With British Who Have Launched New Blows on Picardy Front.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Washington, Aug. 8.—American troops, brigaded with the British, are in action in the great new British offensvie before Amiens. Until their identity is disclosed by General Pershing, however, officials here will not say just what units actually are there. On July 4, General March stated that the 33rd division, made up of Illinois troops, was in action on the Picardy front. Since then, however, army officers say they have been returned to General Pershing's direct command.

Today's offensive, designed, army officials say, is to remove a serious menace from the British front. The Germans have been concentrating the forces in great strength at Amiens and it is believed here that the purpose of the present drive is to shove them back there and thus compel a general retirement all along the northern front.

It is assumed here that the withdrawal of reserves from all along the Picardy front to save the Crown Prince's army in its retreat from the Soissons-Rheims salient has weakened the German forces sufficiently to make another Allied success possible. Some army officers here today, however, were inclined to believe that Marshals Foch and Haig had discovered evidences that the Germans were planning an attack to lift the pressure on the Vesle lines and had simply "beaten them to it."

UNSIGNED LETTERS SENT TO OFFICIALS

Of Local Exemption Board 2—Looks Like Case of "Sour Grapes"—Board Members Capable of Running Their Own Business.

Local board for [illegible] of Ulster county has received a number of anonymous letters lately, criticising the members of the board for putting certain registrants in deferred classes. Some of these letters are bitter also in their attacks on these registrants.

The local officials are glad to receive legitimate information, and will keep the same confidential, but they have no use for cowardly, unsigned letters. If the writer does not give his or her name, no attention will be paid to the communication.

One unsigned letter purposts to give "information" about a certain man in one of the deferred classes, stating that he is "well off," that "his wife has a big income," etc. This particular registrant, as were all the other registrants put in deferred classes, was given deferred classification only after a thorough investigation by the board.

Another letter refers to a man who was given deferred classification by the local board and left in the same class by the legal advisory board after an investigation.

The board members are capable of running their own business without "help" in the form of anonymous letters. Judging from the tone of some of these letters, it looks like a case of "sour grapes" upon the part of the writers.

ALLIES LAUNCH NEW DRIVE NEAR AMIENS IN PICARDY

French and British War Offices Report Attacks Progressing Favorably---French and Americans Still Hammering Away At Enemy South of Aisne---American Troops on New Battle Line.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

With the British Army in France, Aug. 8.—(3:30 p. m.)—The British and French have advanced five kilometers (slightly more than three miles) in their new offensive on the Picardy front.

Several thousands of prisoners have been counted.

With the French and Americans still hammering the Germans south of the Aisne river and the British, biting deeply into the German front in Flanders the Allies, opened a terrific new drive today east and southeast of Amiens on the Picardy plains. The assault was launched over a wide front by the British Fourth Army and the French First Army with Field Marshal Sir Douglas Haig, the British commander in chief, directing the operations.

Initial official dispatches from British great headquarters and the communique issued by the French war office at noon said that the attack was progressing under favorable conditions. It it believed that the Germans were again taken by surprise in this second great Allied counter offensive of the year.

They were certainly caught napping when Marshal Foch launched the first drive with French and American forces on the Marne on July 18.

The assault opposite Amiens followed a series of short local thrusts which the French and British have been carrying out on that front. In the operations in this zone on Tuesday French forces drove back the Germans between Brazches and Morizel, reaching the Avre river.

Whether or not Americans are taking an important part in the new offensive had not been made known at the time this was written. But as Americans were known to be holding a section of the battle line southeast of Amiens, it is fair to assume that they co-operated in his new blow.

The extension of the offensive zone from the Aisne-Marne field to Picardy shows that the Allies are determined to give the Germans no rest and they are taking precautions to forestall any counter offensive that the German high command might be planning.

In the battle which began on March 21 the Germans advanced to a point about nine miles from Amiens, extending their line in form of a wedge with the apex lying just east of the city.

Since then however the Germans have been forced back and when the fighting was renewed today in Picardy the nearest approach of theGermans to Amiens was about ten miles.

The Allies are striking hard and it is evidently their object to throw the Germans back from Amiens, just as they were rolled back from the Marne.

There is a similarity in the two operations. In Picardy the Germans sought to drive towards Paris and cut the lines of communication supplying the northern armies by taking Amiens. On the Marne the Germans again tried to advance on Paris, at the same time cutting the communication lines feeding the eastern armies.

The German plans on the Marne have been crushed and upset and now the Allies are engaged in overturning the German plan in the north. The attack in front of Amiens today was evidently begun over a front of about 15 miles. It is believed to have been prefaced by a terrific bombardment as London reported that heavy gun fire could be heard on the southeastern coast of England all night, coming from the direction of the western front.

AFTER DRIVE W. S. S. SALES

Ulster Climbs Nine Places in Pledges Among Counties of This State and Seven in Cash Sales.

Since the drive began Ulster jumped above seven counties in this state in the cash sales of war savings stamps. The rose from the 55th county next to the last in the list to the 48th. In pledges Ulster rose above nine counties in proportionate results. This is the showing of the report of Commander W. J. Tully to Brigadier General Brinnier and Colonel DeWitt. Seventy millions have been raised in this state army and the quota is $97,000,000. Only six counties have completed their quota, Broome, Cayuga, Essex, Genesee, Schuyler and Wyoming. Many are closely approaching the goal. Ulster county has reached 55 per cent, being 46th in the list in the total of cash and pledges, which is $835,100.

Ulster's cash sales for the month of July, the first of monthly reports since active drive work closed, were over $150,000 with no active drive going on, the result of only the work of mail arriers and the revenues from those who go into the post offices and banks without having been solicited.

WANTS PLACE ON PEACE ERRAND

Former Rondout Pastor Applies Through Kingston Postmaster For Appointment.

The Rev. Dr. S. Banks Nelson, formerly of the Rondout Presbyterian Church on Wurts street, now at the Knox Presbyterian Church, Hamilton, Ont., wrote Postmaster DeWitt expressing his desire in a formal request to be appointed on the mission going to Russia. His letter was forwarded to the president who directed his secretary, Mr. Tumulty, to forward the same to Secretary of War Baker and so notified Kingston's postmaster. Dr. Nelson is a fluent speaker of the Russian language and the postmaster regards him as well equipped to serve with the mission, understanding the Russian language and customs as he does. Dr. Nelson is a citizen of the United States, born in this country, for six years a resident of Kingston. He is a highly educated man, graduated at Princeton when Woodrow Wilson was president of that institution. A cultivated linguist, a scholar and well informed with two sons in the service, one of whom was killed, Dr. Nelson it is believed, stands a good chance for the appointment.

FRANCO-BRITISH OFFICIAL REPORTS

Both French and British War Offices Announce Launching of New Drive Against Germans in Picardy.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Paris, Aug. 8.—The Allies are now smashing the Germans on the Picardy front.

Beginning at 5 o'clock this morning, French troops in conjunction with the British, attacked the German positions southeast of Amiens, the French war office announced at noon.

The attack is developing under favorable conditions, the communique said. The new counter drive follows upon the heels of the mighty successful operation on the Aisne-Marne front and the fresh blow fell before the Germans could recover their breath.

The war office report reads:

"At five o'clock this morning, in conjunction with the British, we attacked southeast of Amiens.

"The attack is developing under favorable conditions."

London, Aug. 8.—A great offensive was launched against the Germans on the Picardy front by British and French troops today.

The Fourth British army and the First French army began the drive at dawn, in front of Amiens, the war office announced.

When Field Marshal Haig, the British commander-in-chief, reported the launching of the new offensive, it was stated that the attacks were progressing satisfactorily over a wide front.

This was the second big Allied drive of the year, the first being opened by the Franco-Americans on the Marne.

(American troops are stationed on the Picardy front.)

The text of the war office statement reads:

"At dawn this morning the British Fourth army and the French First army, under command of Field Marshal Sir Douglas Haig, attacked on a wide front east and southeast of Amiens.

"First reports indicate that the attack is progressing satisfactorily."

BEER DRINKERS FACE DROUGHT

Brewers Hit Hard For Fuel May Reduce Supply—Beer Served With "High Collars"—The Popular "Growler" Trade is Threatened With Short Pints.

Beer drinkers' cups may soon be overflowing with sorrow, instead of their favorite beverage. The brewers are laboring under great difficulties to obtain fuel for making beer. First they were cut down on coal 50 per cent. Then they resorted to coke. Barmann has been advised that no more coke can be obtained. Wood has now become the only available fuel and is soaring in price. The cost of a two cord load of wood was $7 a cord delivered. The use of cars is now forbidden. This means a ten mile haul of the load. The weather during the week has been hard on teams. Auto trucking is highly expensive. Owners of wood lots are deep in the work of harvesting and cannot leave it to bring in the wood. At this time of the year when consumption of beer is very large it takes "fine figuring" as a brewer said, both by brewers and dealers to keep up supply.

In some sections of the city the can gives many families a refreshing drink after the work of the day. The high price of milk to a large extent has created a greater demand for beer in family use. "Rushing the growler" seems to many a necessary part of their domestic daily comforts. Pitchers, tin pails and in fact other available containers, such as can be picked up from the pantry, are seen carried through the streets in a procession beginning about sundown and continuing until the saloons are closed for the night. The large increase of laborers brought into the city for the shipyards has increased the sale of beers in the lower part of the city.

Most of the retailers are handling over the bar smaller glasses. One retailer on Abeel street remarked that he was losing on every glass he handed out.

The saloons depending on family trade, as they call it, that is dispensing beer by the can, are timid about reducing the quantity for the customary price, or increasing the price for the customary pint that is generally expected. With the loss of that trade several saloons would be forced out of business. Reducing supply by the glass is easy with the least injury to the dealer, but to reduce quantity where weight is required does not permit the substitution of foam which can be used as a camouflage in drawing beer by the glass.

What is called near beer, that is two per cent, is being forced into consumption as far as possible. It is said that one of the dealers who lost license when the licenses were cut down last fall has opened his bar to sell near beer. This beverage appeals very little to the veteran beer drinker. Without the natural fermentation beer is not beer. It is said to be hard to keep in the condition required by the consumer for a hot weather drink. The soda fountains this summer are in consequence of these burdensome conditions in the beer trade doing a larger business than in any previous season. But the soda fountain drink at five and ten cents a glass is an impossible price to be paid for a summer night family refreshment beverage that cannot be lugged into the home in a container.

PACKERS COMBINE IS DENOUNCED

Federal Trade Commission Assails "Big Five" As "Structure of Conspiracy" and Recommends Government Supervision.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Washington, Aug. 8.—Bitterly assailing the great packing firms of Swift, Armour, Morris, Cudahy and Wilson, for creating a "structure of conspiracy, monopoly and restraint," the federal trade commission, in a report to President Wilson, recommends that immediate steps be taken to give the government a monopoly over such portion of their business as "will restore competition."

This report has been in the hands of President Wilson since July 5, but, because of the serious charges made in connection with it, it was not made public until today. Publication today was authorized directly by the president.

After declaring that producers, competitors and consumers are at the mercy of the packers, the commission makes the following recommendations:

First—That the government acquire, through the railroad administration, all rolling stock used for the transportation of meat, and such ownership be called a monopoly.

Second—The acquisition of railroad yards from time to time as the future development of live stock production in the United States may require. This to include the customary adjuncts of the stock yards.

Third—That the government acquire, through the railroad administration, all privately owned refrigerator cars and all necessary equipment for their proper operation and that such ownership be declared a government monopoly.

Fourth—That the federal government acquire such of the branch house cold storage plants and warehouses as are necessary to provide facilities for the competitive marketing and storage of food products in the principal centers of distribution and consumption. The same to be operated by the government as public markets and storage places under plans as will form and outlet for all dealing. Supplementing the marketing and storage facilities thus acquired that the government establish through the railroad administration at the terminals of all principal points of distribution and consumption, central wholesale markets, and storage plants with facilities open to all upon payment of just and fair charges.

Accompanying the letter of the commission to the president is a voluminous report in which the finding of the board in its complete investigation of the packing industry is connected. The report shows the magnitude of the large meat packing companies, the extensive ramifications of their interests and the instruments by which they have established and maintained control; the nature of their combination, with details of the various agreements and combinations; the practices of the combination and their social and economic effects as well as the remedy proposed as before set forth.

PICARDY CANNON HEARD IN BRITAIN

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

London, Aug. 8.—Terrific gun fire, apparently from the British front in France, was heard on the southeast coast during the night, increasing to the intensity of drum-fire after midnight, said a dispatch to the Star today.

The bombardment (which is believed to have preliminated the Franco-British offensive on the Picardy front) could be heard as far inland as Eastbourne.

It began at 7:30 in the evening and increased in violence until midnight. During the morning the cannonade apparently resolved into drum fire.

(Eastbourne is about 80 miles from the southeast coast of England.)

French and British War Offices Report Attacks Progressing Favorably--French and Americans Still Hammering Away At Enemy South of Aisne--American Troops on New Battle Line.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

With the British Army in France, Aug. 8.—(5:30 p. m.)—The British and French have advanced five kilometers (slightly more than three miles) in their new offensive on the Picardy front.

Several thousands of prisoners have been counted.

With the French and Americans still hammering the Germans south of the Aisne river and the British, biting deeply into the German front in Flanders the Allies, opened a terrific new drive today east and southeast of Amiens on the Picardy plains. The assault was launched over a wide front by the British Fourth Army and the French First Army with Field Marshal Sir Douglas Haig, the British commander in chief, directing the operations.

Initial official dispatches from British great headquarters and the communique issued by the French war office at noon said that the attack was progressing under favorable conditions. It it believed that the Germans were again taken by surprise in this second great Allied counter offensive of the year.

They were certainly caught napping when Marshal Foch launched the first drive with French and American forces on the Marne on July 18.

The assault opposite Amiens followed a series of short local thrusts which the French and British have been carrying out on that front. In the operations in this zone on Tuesday French forces drove back the Germans between Brazches and Morizel, reaching the Avre river.

Whether or not Americans are taking an important part in the new offensive had not been made known at the time this was written. But as Americans were known to be holding a section of the battle line southeast of Amiens, it is fair to assume that they co-operated in his new blow.

The extension of the offensive zone from the Aisne-Marne field to Picardy shows that the Allies are determined to give the Germans no rest and they are taking precautions to forestall any counter offensive that the German high command might be planning.

In the battle which began on March 21 the Germans advanced to a point about nine miles from Amiens, extending their line in form of a wedge with the apex lying just east of the city.

Since then however the Germans have been forced back and when the fighting was renewed today in Picardy the nearest approach of the Germans to Amiens was, about ten miles.

The Allies are striking hard and it is evidently their object to throw the Germans back from Amiens, just as they were rolled back from the Marne.

There is a similarity in the two operations. In Picardy the Germans sought to drive towards Paris and cut the lines of communication supplying the northern armies by taking Amiens. On the Marne the Germans again tried to advance on Paris, at the same time cutting the communication lines feeding the eastern armies.

The German plans on the Marne have been crushed and upset and now the Allies are engaged in overturning the German plan in the north. The attack in front of Amiens today was evidently begun over a front of about 15 miles. It is believed to have been prefaced by a terrific bombardment as London reported that heavy gun fire could be heard on the southeastern coast of England all night, coming from the direction of the western front.

IN THE SERVICE OF OUR COUNTRY

PRIVATE JUDSON J. BARRETT.

Son of Mrs. Alice Barrett, now somewhere in France. Before entering the service Private Barrett was manager of the John J. Larkin shoe store uptown. In recent letters received by his mother, he states that the trip so far has been a pleasant one, having landed at a port in England and thus by train through some of the principal cities of that country. Having crossed to France, he is now stationed in a small French village. His present address is Private Judson J. Barrett, 303rd Sanitary Train, 309th Ambulance Co., A. E. F.

Corporal Harry Kaplan of Camp Dix, is home on a furough.

Mr. and Mrs. George Wortman of 160 Washington avenue have received word of the safe arrival overseas of their son, Edward J. Wortman, who is now with Co. B of the 52nd Infantry.

Miss Agnes Cecelia Dunn, R. N., who has the honor of being the first graduate of the City of Kingston Hospital Nursing School, has received her official notice and pin for war service and expects an immediate call to service.

Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Elmendorf have received a cablegram from their son, Lieut. Tracy L. Elmendorf, announcing his safe arrival overseas. Lieut. Elmendorf is an instructor in the Aviation Division and before going overseas he was stationed at Kelly Field, Texas. A portrait of Lieut. Elmendorf will appear in The Freeman in a few days.

AFTER DRIVE W. S. S. SALES

Ulster Climbs Nine Places in Pledges Among Counties of This State and Seven in Cash Sales.

Since the drive began Ulster jumped above seven counties in this state in the cash sales of war savings stamps. The rose from the 55th county next to the last in the list to the 48th. In pledges Ulster rose above nine counties in proportionate results. This is the showing of the report of Commander W. J. Tully to Brigadier General Brinnier and Colonel DeWitt. Seventy millions have been raised in this state army and the quota is $97,000,000. Only six counties have completed their quota, Broome, Cayuga, Essex, Genesee, Schuyler and Wyoming. Many are closely approaching the goal. Ulster county has reached 55 per cent, being 46th in the list in the total of cash and pledges, which is $535,100.

Ulster's cash sales for the month of July, the first of monthly reports since active drive work closed, were over $150,000 with no active drive going on, the result of only the work of mail arriers and the revenues from those who go into the post offices and banks without having been solicited.

WANTS PLACE ON PEACE ERRAND

Former Rondout Pastor Applies Through Kingston Postmaster For Appointment.

The Rev. Dr. S. Banks Nelson, formerly of the Rondout Presbyterian Church on Wurts street, now at the Knox Presbyterian Church, Hamilton, Ont., wrote Postmaster DeWitt expressing his desire in a formal request to be appointed on the mission going to Russia. His letter was forwarded to the president who directed his secretary, Mr. Tumulty, to forward the same to Secretary of War Baker and so notified Kingston's postmaster. Dr. Nelson is a fluent speaker of the Russian language and the postmaster regards him as well equipped to serve with the mission, understanding the Russian language and customs as he does. Dr. Nelson is a citizen of the United States, born in this country, for six years a resident of Kingston. He is a highly educated man, graduated at Princeton when Woodrow Wilson was president of that institution. A cultivated linguist, a scholar and well informed with two sons in the service, one of whom was killed, Dr. Nelson it is believed, stands a good chance for the appointment.

FRANCO-BRITISH OFFICIAL REPORTS

Both French and British War Offices Announce Launching of New Drive Against Germans in Picardy.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Paris, Aug. 8.—The Allies are now smashing the Germans on the Picardy front.

Beginning at 5 o'clock this morning, French troops in conjunction with the British, attacked the German positions southeast of Amiens, the French war office announced at noon.

The attack is developing under favorable conditions, the communique said. The new counter drive follows upon the heels of the mighty successful operation on the Aisne-Marne front and the fresh blow fell before the Germans could recover their breath.

The war office report reads:

"At five o'clock this morning, in conjunction with the British, we attacked southeast of Amiens.

"The attack is developing under favorable conditions."

London, Aug. 8.—A great offensive was launched against the Germans on the Picardy front by British and French troops today.

The Fourth British army and the First French army began the drive at dawn, in front of Amiens, the war office announced.

When Field Marshal Haig, the British commander-in-chief, reported the launching of the new offensive, it was stated that the attacks were progressing satisfactorily over a wide front.

This was the second big Allied drive of the year, the first being opened by the Franco-Americans on the Marne.

(American troops are stationed on the Picardy front.)

The text of the war office statement reads:

"At dawn this morning the British Fourth army and the French First army, under command of Field Marshal Sir Douglas Haig, attacked on a wide front east and southeast of Amiens.

"First reports indicate that the attack is progressing satisfactorily."

BEER DRINKERS FACE DROUGHT

Brewers Hit Hard For Fuel May Reduce Supply—Beer Served With "High Collars"—The Popular "Growler" Trade is Threatened With Short Pints.

Beer drinkers' cups may soon be overflowing with sorrow, instead of their favorite beverage. The brewers are laboring under great difficulties to obtain fuel for making beer. First they were cut down on coal 50 per cent. Then they resorted to coke. Barmann has been advised that no more coke can be obtained. Wood has now become the only available fuel and is soaring in price. The cost of a two cord load of wood was $7 a cord delivered. The use of cars is now forbidden. This means a ten mile haul of the load. The weather during the week has been hard on teams. Auto trucking is highly expensive. Owners of wood lots are deep in the work of harvesting and cannot leave it to bring in the wood. At this time of the year when consumption of beer is very large it takes "fine figuring" as a brewer said, both by brewers and dealers to keep up supply.

In some sections of the city the can gives many families a refreshing drink after the work of the day. The high price of milk to a large extent has created a greater demand for beer in family use. "Rushing the growler" seems to many a necessary part of their domestic daily comforts. Pitchers, tin pails and in fact other available containers, such as can be picked up from the pantry, are seen carried through the streets in a procession beginning about sundown and continuing until the saloons are closed for the night. The large increase of laborers brought into the city for the shipyards has increased the sale of beers in the lower part of the city.

Most of the retailers are handling over the bar smaller glasses. One retailer on Abeel street remarked that he was losing on every glass he handed out.

The saloons depending on family trade, as they call it, that is dispensing beer by the can, are timid about reducing the quantity for the customary price, or increasing the price for the customary pint that is generally expected. With the loss of that trade several saloons would be forced out of business. Reducing supply by the glass is easy with the least injury to the dealer, but to reduce quantity where weight is required does not permit the substitution of foam which can be used as a camouflage in drawing beer by the glass.

What is called near beer, that is two per cent. is being forced into consumption as far as possible. It is said that one of the dealers who lost license when the licenses were cut down last fall has opened his bar to sell near beer. This beverage appeals very little to the veteran beer drinker. Without the natural fermentation beer is not beer. It is said to be hard to keep in the condition required by the consumer for a hot weather drink. The soda fountains this summer are in consequence of these burdensome conditions in the beer trade doing a larger business than in any previous season. But the soda fountain drink at five and ten cents a glass is an impossible price to be paid for a summer night family refreshment beverage that cannot be lugged into the home in a container.

PACKERS COMBINE IS DENOUNCED

Federal Trade Commission Assails "Big Five" As "Structure of Conspiracy" and Recommends Government Supervision.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Washington, Aug. 8.—Bitterly assailing the great packing firms of Swift, Armour, Morris, Cudahy and Wilson, for creating a "structure of conspiracy, monopoly and restraint," the federal trade commission, in a report to President Wilson, recommends that immediate steps be taken to give the government a monopoly over such portion of their business as "will restore competition."

This report has been in the hands of President Wilson since July 5, but, because of the serious charges made in connection with it, it was not made public until today. Publication today was authorized directly by the president.

After declaring that producers, competitors and consumers are at the mercy of the packers, the commission makes the following recommendations:

First—That the government acquire, through the railroad administration, all rolling stock used for the transportation of meat, and such ownership be called a monopoly.

Second—The acquisition of railroad yards from time to time as the future development of live stock production in the United States may require. This to include the customary adjuncts of the stock yards.

Third—That the government acquire, through the railroad administration, all privately owned refrigerator cars and all necessary equipment for their proper operation and that such ownership be declared a government monopoly.

Fourth—That the federal government acquire such of the branch house cold storage plants and warehouses as are necessary to provide facilities for the competitive marketing and storage of food products in the principal centers of distribution and consumption. The same to be operated by the government as public markets and storage places under plans as will form and outlet for all dealing. Supplementing the marketing and storage facilities thus acquired that the government establish through the railroad administration at the terminals of all principal points of distribution and consumption, central wholesale markets, and storage plants with facilities open to all upon payment of just and fair charges.

Accompanying the letter of the commission to the president is a voluminous report in which the finding of the board in its complete investigation of the packing industry is connected. The report shows the magnitude of the large meat packing companies, the extensive ramifications of their interests and the instruments by which they have established and maintained control; the nature of their combination, with details of the various agreements and combinations; the practices of the combination and their social and economic effects as well as the remedy proposed as before set forth.

PICARDY CANNON HEARD IN BRITAIN

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

London, Aug. 8—Terrific gun fire, apparently from the British front in France, was heard on the southeast coast during the night, increasing to the intensity of drumfire after midnight, said a dispatch to the Star today.

The bombardment (which is believed to have preliminated the Franco-British offensive on the Picardy front) could be heard as far inland as Eastbourne.

It began at 7:30 in the evening and increased in violence until midnight. During the morning the cannonade apparently resolved into drum fire.

(Eastbourne is about 80 miles from the southeast coast of England.)

The cable was dated, August 5 at Murmansk and said the Allied diplomatic missions were in Kandalaska Tuesday and were considering entering Archangel.

CZAR'S GUNNER OFFERS SERVICE

Artilleryman Israel in Russo-Japan War Applies for Gunner's Place in American Expeditionary Force to Russia.

S. Israel, the widely known proprietor of a North Front street shoe repair shop, called on Postmaster DeWitt Wednesday and put in an application for a place in the artillery arm of the American Expeditionary Force to Russia. Israel makes his enlistment conditional in the artillery arm and in service in Russia. He believes that his experience as an artillerist for the Czar in the Russian-Japanese war, his command of the Russian language, well informed of the customs of the land where he was born, would be steps for his advancement in the service of the United States in Russia, a logical condition and commendable ambition.

The immediate difficulty is that Israel is not a citizen of the United States. He took out his first papers before the begining of the war. Unfortunately he lost the opportunity of getting his final papers, not because of the war, but they were due before that and it so happened that at that time he was unable to get his witnesses here. Now he must wait until hostilities cease. The postmaster, who cannot accept him in the regular service, does not see any way for Israel to get into the service he wants, but will forward his application to Washington. Israel described his experience fighting with the Russians. He says that the Czar's armies are without fear and are almost invincible, but the officers under the regime of the Czar were in many cases incompetent, traitorous and cowardly. Not all of them. He regards those who rose to high command fully competent. Under the present law his standing as a citizen is that of a friendly neutral. He has a fine business on North Front street, which he is willing to leave, a shop more largely equipped is not found in this city.

STUDENT NURSE RESERVE.

Interest Grows Among Women of This Country.

When interviewed by a Freeman reporter this morning, Miss Kelder, secretary for the Ulster County Commitee of the U. S. Student Nurse Reserve, stated that the committee was daily hearing from women throughout the county relative to the work. As soon as the matter is fully understood, as it shortly will be following such questioning, there is no doubt that Ulster's quota of the 25,000 student nurses called for now, will be enrolled. Our casualty lists bitterly emphasize the need of having every registered nurse ready for army service if need be, and whenever called. But all of these nurses, or even a large part of them cannot be released unless we have to take their places, this number of student nurses, hence the urgency of the call.

Throughout Ulster county we have many women who are college graduates. A special call has been sounded to them and if they will communicate with Miss Kelder at the Kingston City Hospital, they may learn just how much their college education whether completed or in progress will count for in this nursing work; at which colleges there are special courses for such student nurses, and other important facts. "To whom much has been given, of her shall much be expected."

Just what sacrifices are we women of Ulster ready to make in order that our men at the front, wounded, perhaps well nigh to death, may have the best possible care of the most efficient registered nurses, while we qualify to release them for such service? Tell your answer to Miss Kelder at the Kingston City Hospital.

ELLENVILLE ART EXHIBITION OPEN

Works of Numerous Artists Adorn Hunt Memorial Hall—One Must See Pictures to Appreciate Them.

Ellenville, Aug. 8.—The art exhibition opened at Hunt Memorial Hall Tuesday afternoon at 3 o'clock under most favorable auspices. As announced the paintings to the number of 38 occupied places on the walls of this very handsome hall, placed there under the supervision of Artist George Innes, Jr., E. L. Henry, pioneer artist of Cragsmoor, and Artist Frederick S. Dellenbaugh, also of New York and Cragsmoor. This art exhibition was one of the rare treats for the village of Ellenville and vicinity. The work so carefully executed under the able management of Mrs. George Deyo, as chairman, and a corps of efficient assistants. The Musical Club, of which Mrs. Henry Horton is the very efficient president, played an important part in this very unique affair in which everyone was especially interested, as it was a benefit for Red Cross work. Henry, who is so well and favorably known among the leading artist circles everywhere, and is so well known and loved by the Ellenville and vicinity people, presented to the village of Ellenville six of his choice paintings and all local subjects as follows: "The late John S. Billings," Fred Thomas or "Black Fred," old Pete Brown "Peter P.," old Martin Terwilliger, Aunt Nellie Bloomer, from "Life on her 100th Birthday," and "Joseph Mance." To fully appreciate the pictures one must see them.

The pictures were received by the village president, Frank J. Potter. A brief and exceedingly interesting history of each subject was given by Uriah E. Terwilliger and this interesting feature of the afternoon's entertainment was well received by all attending. The entire catalogues of paintings by the artists represented at this exhibition each and all received its praise due. Two others by Artist Henry, "Coming Home From Church" and "On Rondout Creek Near Napanoch," below the celebrated Yama Farms, attracted much attention. The three paintings of Artist Innes, "The Sunburst," "The Green Meadow," "Sunset on the Marsh," occupied a large space on the wall and must be really viewed by an artist to appreciate the very beautiful work. Air Plants.

In some parts of Mexico "air plants" abound. These curious growths are never attached to the soil in any way, but rely for their moisture on the atmosphere. One kind, known as "Spaniard's beard" (Tillandsia usneoides), attaches itself to telephone wires. Very often the growth becomes a positive nuisance, and it is necessary to send men to clear it away. The "Spaniard's beard" has no proper leaves, and in appearance is simply a mass of green-gray threads.—Wide World.

Joke on Editor.

A well-known author, says a New York paragrapher, submitted an article on Zola to a magazine editor. The editor rejected it on the recommendation of one of his assistants, who said it was too pessimistic. He wrote to the author "If you have something else let me have it." The author cut the article into two parts. One he titled "Tolstoy." The other "Balzac." Instead of the works of Zola he substituted the work of Tolstoy and Balzac. The editor accepted both articles.

House Sparrow in England.

In the course of a campaign in England against the swarming and mischievous house sparrow the services of children and "sparrow clubs" were solicited. Bad results were the consequence, since little discrimination was used, and every sort of small bird was mistaken for the proscribed sparrow, and thousands of useful insect eating birds were destroyed, so that exactly the opposite of what was intended was accomplished.

Ventilate Coal Piles.

Unless coal piles are well ventilated spontaneous combustion will follow. To prevent spontaneous combustion, the bureau of mines gives these suggestions: (1) Build a coal bin on dry ground. (2) Store only one size of coal in each pile. (3) Remove fine coal for immediate use if possible. (1) Don't wet and dry the coal alternately while piling. (5) Store the coal in small piles near the place where it is to be stored. (6) Use small bins in storage yards.

Danger in Tainted Mouth.

Bleeding of the teeth, prorrhea, involves a debilitating gradual loss of blood, and the flow of pus into the mouth, small though it be, is manifestly neither healthful nor pleasant. Medical science gives a tainted mouth as much cause for rheumatism, anemia, neuritis, ulcers of the stomach, acute kidney diseases, diabetes, heart trouble, deformed joints, irritability and general nervous exhaustion, and even pneumonia germs are found in infected gums.

CZAR'S GUNNER OFFERS SERVICE

Artilleryman Israel in Russo-Japan War Applies for Gunner's Place in American Expeditionary Force to Russia.

S. Israel, the widely known proprietor of a North Front street shoe repair shop, called on Postmaster DeWitt Wednesday and put in an application for a place in the artillery arm of the American Expeditionary Force to Russia. Israel makes his enlistment conditional in the artillery arm and in service in Russia. He believes that his experience as an artillerist for the Czar in the Russian-Japanese war, his command of the Russian language, well informed of the customs of the land where he was born, would be steps for his advancement in the service of the United States in Russia, a logical condition and commendable ambition.

The immediate difficulty is that Israel is not a citizen of the United States. He took out his first papers before the begining of the war. Unfortunately he lost the opportunity of getting his final papers, not because of the war, but they were due before that and it so happened that at that time he was unable to get his witnesses here. Now he must wait until hostilities cease. The postmaster, who cannot accept him in the regular service, does not see any way for Israel to get into the service he wants, but will forward his application to Washington. Israel described his experience fighting with the Russians. He says that the Czar's armies are without fear and are almost invincible, but the officers under the regime of the Czar were in many cases incompetent, traitorous and cowardly. Not all of them. He regards those who rose to high command fully competent. Under the present law his standing as a citizen is that of a friendly neutral. He has a fine business on North Front street, which he is willing to leave, a shop more largely equipped is not found in this city.

STUDENT NURSE RESERVE.

Interest Grows Among Women of This Country.

When interviewed by a Freeman reporter this morning, Miss Kelder, secretary for the Ulster County Committee of the U. S. Student Nurse Reserve, stated that the committee was daily hearing from women throughout the county relative to the work. As soon as the matter is fully understood, as it shortly will be following such questioning, there is no doubt that Ulster's quota of the 25,000 student nurses called for now, will be enrolled. Our casualty lists bitterly emphasize the need of having every registered nurse ready for army service if need be, and whenever called. But all of these nurses, or even a large part of them cannot be released unless we have to take their places, this number of student nurses, hence the urgency of the call.

Throughout Ulster county we have many women who are college graduates. A special call has been sounded to them, and if they will communicate with Miss Kelder at the Kingston City Hospital, they may learn just how much their college education whether completed or in progress will count for in this nursing work; at which colleges there are special courses for such student nurses, and other important facts. "To whom much has been given, of her shall much be expected."

Just what sacrifices are we women of Ulster ready to make in order that our men at the front, wounded, perhaps well nigh to death, may have the best possible care of the most efficient registered nurses, while we qualify to release them for such service? Tell your answer to Miss Kelder at the Kingston City Hospital.

KINGSTON, N. Y., AUGUST 8, 1918.

It is significant that the Germans have nicknamed fighting Americans "teufel-hunden" (devil-dogs) and that Hindenburg is quoted as saying that the German soldiers will get used to the Americans just as they got used to savage blacks from Africa. Evidently our boys have put fear into the hearts of the Huns.

Assuming that the investigation made by Postmaster DeWitt was thorough and his conclusions correct in regard to recent reports concerning the loyalty of one of the local post office employes, there is excellent reason for the implied rebuke to those who are too hasty in making unjust charges. There is every reason to believe that Postmaster DeWitt probed this matter to the bottom, that his finding is correct and that the whole affair was brought about by an unbridled tongue. "Pro-German," the most insulting epithet that can be applied at this time to any loyal American, is being used altogether too freely in the venting of personal spite or as an expression of anger or dislike. Perhaps, however, if a few more men of the Stieler type, were taken in charge by the government, loyal Americans would feel more assured that the real Pro-Germans were being taken care of properly and there would be less temptation to individual action.

GERMAN EYES OPENING.

The awakening of Germans in America to the truth, if we are to judge from a notable utterance of the New York Staats-Zeitung, goes on apace. When the war began four years ago it was natural enough for most persons of German birth or recent descent in this country to take the side of the Kaiser's militarists. Their unwillingness to believe the accounts of hideous German atrocities was not surprising. It was only to be expected that the hearts of many of them would be cruelly torn when America entered the war and that even then in the case of no few of them a genuine awakening to the real truth would be slow. But apparently the process is more rapid now. Apparently eyes long obscured now begin to see clearly the whole terrible truth, for the New York Staats-Zeitung, the most important German-language paper of this country, now assails the militant German autocracy and declares that millions of Germans believe its defeat would be a blessing to them.

In its summing up of the situation the Staats-Zeitung sets forth Germany's supposed war gains and its actual losses. On the credit side it puts the conquering of Belgium and the occupation of dwindling portions of France; the enslavement of the Russian people by "an outrageous treaty"; the destruction or crippling of Serbia and Montenegro; the winning of the support of Turkey and Bulgaria by conniving at the massacre of a million Armenians and other Christians; the sinking of millions of tons of shipping by submarines while showing no regard for the lives of noncombatants, not even women and children. On the debit side; Germany has sacrificed "the flower of her arms-bearing youth, millions of her sons have fallen, been crippled or taken prisoner—losses which no victory can repay." She lost all her colonies and placed a burden of debt upon her people under which they will groan for decades to come. Her domestic and foreign commerce is demoralized and her merchant vessels have disappeard from the sea. The acts of her military commanders and armies "have brought the German name into disrepute in America where for two hundred years it had stood high."

This last of the supposed "gains" is evidently the one most keenly appreciated by persons of German birth or recent descent in this country. To many of them it is a grief, a tragedy—however indifferent the Prussian militarists may be—that the German name has been smirched in America where for two centuries it has been respected. No wonder the Staats-Zeitung describes the recognition of this and related facts as "a rude awakening" and goes on to declare that the defeat of the German war machine would be a blessing to Germans and their posterity. The Staats-Zeitung asserts that Germans—doubtless referring to those domesticated in this country—have at last seen through the motives of the Kaiser's militarists "whose purposes are selfish and who aim at the suppression of the ideas of liberty and the forcing of their hated government upon the whole world." The editor of this leading German paper in America desires the world to be relieved of "a burden which lies upon it like an incubus," but no doubt what inevitably concerns him and his friends most is the stigma brought upon the German name in America by Prussian aims, deeds and frightfulness of the most barbarous sort.

LITTLE LAUGHS.

"Oh, would some power of giftie gie us to see ourselves as others see us." "That's easy. Read your description on your passport."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

"Did any of your ancestors do anything to cause posterity to remember them?" asked the haughty woman. "I reckon they did," replied the old farmer. "My grandfather put a mortgage on this place that ain't paid off yit."—Boston Transcript.

Story from the Trenches.

The Irishman and the Scotsman are usually very good chums in the trenches, although they are miles apart in the matter of temperament. The Irishman is all for the present and let the future take care of itself, but the Scotsman is full of care for the future and in every way cautious and canny. Here is an example of their different temperaments.

Pat and Sandy, reconnoitring round an old farm house, found a war-weary chicken. Pat was overjoyed. He was sick of bully and biscuits.

"That's a bit of luck," said Pat. "Sure we'll have a dacent supper tonight."

"No, no," said Sandy. "Let's keep it till tomorrow. It may lay an egg." Pittsburgh Chronicle-Telegraph.

Too "Fur" and Too Long.

My brother while home from Camp Grant told this incident that happened recently in the camp. Two of the boys in his company were placed in the guardhouse one morning and were surprised to see each other.

One said, "Well, Mac, what you in here for?"

"Why, I'm in here on account of my furlong."

"You don't mean your furlong; you mean furlough."

"No, I don't; I went too 'fur' and I stayed too long."—Pittsburgh Post.

Not Too Far.

The ambitious young man was interviewing the wealthy father of his sweetheart. Wishing to hand out a few complimentary remarks he began:

"What a magnificent estate you have Mr. Richleigh. Does it go away over to the second ridge there?"

"It does," replied the gruff old parent. "It goes even farther than that. But it does not go with my daughter."—Exchange.

About Face.

In a London 'bus a man in civilian's garb rose and offered his seat to a woman. "I never accept favors from slackers," she said witheringly. "Madam," he replied blandly, "I was all through Gallipoli, and if we'd had as much powder as you have on your face we'd have got to Constantinople in no time."—Boston Transcript.

GLASCO.

Glasco, Aug. 8.—A fire broke out in an old unoccupied barn on the Maginnis brickyard property Monday night, at ten o'clock, that startled everybody as it lit up the eastern sky with an unusual brilliancy and drew a crowd from every direction in a very short time. The barn was of little value and the contents mostly litter, that was quickly consumed. It was feared at first by uptown residents that it was the Washburn buildings below the hill, and such a report reached Saugerties and in a few minutes a stream of automobiles came down the Saugerties road that looked like a chain of fire as their headlights whirled around the corner at Fuller's store. But the excitement soon subsided, as the loss seemed insignificant.

Frank Brown, with members of his family, enjoyed a motor trip through Sullivan county on Sunday and Monday.

A bunch of soldiers' letters from "over there" came to the Glasco post office Mosday that must have been delayed somewhere in transit.

What Diamonds Are Doing In This Town

THE following letter will give you some idea of the superior service that are giving right here in your own town.

The beauty about this is that it reflects what every motorist thinks who has tried Diamonds.

Kingston, January 16, 1918.
I have run four Diamond Tires on my Ford car ten months probably 6,000 or 7,000 miles or more good weather, in bad rough roads. I have kept records of tire costs, and in the two years Diamonds have far surpassed any other tires I could buy. From now on nothing but Diamonds for mine.
Jas. E. Cullum,
New York State Boiler Inspector.

Only super-tires could give service like that. You can have Diamond mileage for your car for less money than you usually pay for other tires. My stock of sizes is complete.

REVIEW OF HUDSON RIVER STEAMBOATS

"Mary Powell" in Her Fifty-Eighth Year—"Norwich" in Service Eighty-Two Years—Keen Competition in the Old Days—Albany Trip Cost Ten Cents.

The August issue of "Gas Logic" contains an interesting article about the old Hudson river steamboats, The "Dean Richmond," "Daniel Drew," "Chauncey Vibbard," and others of the old-time galaxy of picturesque boats are mentioned.

The article is as follows:

There is a glamour and a romance about the old Hudson river steamboats that attaches to no other fresh-water craft in the world. Perhaps the only other passenger steamers of their kind that have achieved anything like their distinction and have rivaled them as a factor of importance in the lives of Americans were the uncouth fire-spitting Mississippi river boats of ante-bellum days celebrated chiefly by Mark Twain. The humorist's pseudonym is itself a relic of the days when he was pilot on one of those strange, shadowy vessels of America's past.

The old-time boats that plied our own North river and those that steamed up and down the mighty but muddy "Father of Waters" had much in common. Both were familiar and cheering sights to the people who lived along their watery path-ways. Both were vitally important and necessary to the lives of our grandsires and great-grandsires, to whom their daily coming was for years almost the sole link between them and the busy haunts of men in the cities. For the steamboat, be it remembered, was the first actor on the stage of American transportation and, long before the coming of the railroads, furnished a luxurious and regular mode of travel.

Today when our Hudson river boats are veritable swift-moving palaces, built and appointed on a scale of magnificence undreamed of in the old days, their coming or going causes scarcely a ripple on the smooth surface of New York's existence. Noiselessly, almost as if by magic, they guide northward past the Palisades and vanish into the mists of Tappan Zee in a few minutes after leaving their piers. Few see them depart or give them more than a passing glance or thought.

But a half century or so ago, when the Daniel Drew or the Chauncey Vibbard pulled out into mid-stream, thousands turned out to do her homage and watch her out of sight, while the boat's progress northward to Albany was a continuous march of triumph. To the residents of the upper Hudson valley, who greeted her with fluttering handkerchiefs and shouts of Godspeed, her passage was the event of the day. As one historian of the river truly says, the people "knowing just when to expect the boats, set their clocks, said their prayers and went to bed by them."

There has recently been a marked revival of interest in the old-time Hudson river boats, prompted by the happy discovery by some of the older generation of New Yorkers that the Mary Powell and some of the other famous river-craft of their youth are still doing valiant service on the river and showing little sign of their advanced age.

No more popular steamboat ever plowed the blue waters of the Hudson or any other body of fresh water, for that matter, than the Mary Powell. For many years she bore undisputed the proud title, "Queen of the Hudson," and even today in her fifty-eighth year she still retains many of her queenly qualities of grace and beauty and speed. This fine old pleasure-craft, rich in tender associations for many New Yorkers still living, has seen her most active days but she is still very much alive as an extra boat of the Day Line. All of her old friends will be glad to know that she is in fine health, "going strong," and likely to be seen in her old river haunts for some years to come.

Another old-timer of great interest—far older than the Mary Powell, is the Norwich, which is still doing duty in the upper Hudson around Rondout after eighty-two years of service. Originally a passenger boat, she has since about the middle of the last century been used as a tow boat, and every spring, for many years, broke a clear path through the river ice, thus acquiring the title of "Ice King." About ten years ago she sank after a collision and the president of the company that owned her decided that it would be too costly to raise her. The president's wife, however, had a different idea and besides was a woman of decision.

"Samuel," she demanded, "do you mean to say that you aren't going to raise the Norwich? Why, that boat made your fortune for you. By all means, raise her."

And the Norwich was raised and had an important part in the Hudson-Fulton celebration that took place a little later. She is said to be the oldest steamboat in the world.

What a train of delightful associations is opened to the mind by the mere mention of the Dean Richmond, the James W. Baldwin, the Daniel Drew, the Armenia, the Chauncey Vibbard, the St. John, the Mary Powell and others of the old-time galaxy of Hudson river boats.

Like the Mary Powell, the Daniel Drew and the Vibbard were very fast, and the three made notable records to Albany. Many an old New Yorker recalls the thrill with which as a passenger he took part in one of these speed tests. The "days of the real sport" on the Hudson, however, came before the Civil War, when in the heat of a race captains often forgot to make their regular up-river stops for passengers. Early competition was so bitter that at one time the Albany trip cost ten cents, while later it is said one could even ride free.

One of the chief claims of fame of the Armenia, for years a great favorite, was her steam calliope, with which she used to "waken the dead" as she swept upstream. The musical (?) attachment was finally adjudged an expensive nuisance and removed.

Other famous names on the Hudson's honor roll are the Alida, Francis Skiddy, Thomas Powell, Rip Van Winkle, New World, Cornelius Vanderbilt, Chrystenah (still running) and, last but not least, Fulton's Clermont, parent of them all.

Compared with the new river boats the old-timers were crude and primitive. Yet they were marvels in their day; they gave untold joy pleasure to thousands, and were worthy forerunners of the race of splendid river Titans of today.

Its requirements from now on would be only about 15,000 men a month, chiefly for the merchant marine, he said.

UNDERNEATH THE CITY HALL DOME

It is expected that there will be a record breaking attendance at the adjourned session of the city fathers next Tuesday evening when the question of whether the gas company will be granted permission to booost the rate of gas 30 cents a thousand will be taken up, as the public has been invited to attend and give their views in the matter.

The gas company, under contract, is supplying the city with gas at the rate of $1.15 a thousand feet, and want permission to change the contract giving them the right to charge $1.45. As everybody's pocketboook is touched in the matter, a warm session may be expected. It is only hoped that the warm spell may be broken before the evening of the session.

A chauffeur's examination will be held at the city hall the morning of August 30, at 9:30 o'clock.

There is one thing to be thankful this warm weather and that is the fact that the city drinking water after it has been allowed to run a short time from the faucet, is fairly cold.

The public drinking fountains for horses, which were closed on account of glanders, are sorely missed by the horses about town, and it is hoped that conditions will shortly warrant the water being turned on.

Your Jelly For Our Wounded Boys!

With every thrifty housewife making jelly and in other ways preserving native fruits for winter consumption, the call just received from the Red Cross should find a quick and generous response. The Ulster County Chapter has been notified to ask the people of the community for gifts of jelly to be sent to our base hospitals in this country, for our wounded men when they come back to us, which will be all too soon, now. Send or take your jelly to the Red Cross Headquarters as soon as convenient, and the chapter will ship the same to such base hospital or hospitals as is designated by the Atlantic Division Incidentally, plan for making additional jelly from now on, to keep the wounded men thus remembered from home. Extreme care should be taken that all jars of jelly are tightly sealed and in good shape for shipment. This call is for the women of all of Ulster county.

LATTINGTOWN.

Lattingtown, Aug. 8.—Freaks of weather, last Sunday being real cool and the wearing of a fall overcoat, the wearing not being uncomfortable, and on Monday after the thermometer standing 100 in the shade and over.

Bernard Chilleroy, an Italian young man, has received his card to go to a training camp.

Mr. Alexander and a friend are camping out on the Warren family farm. They are from New York.

Arnold Macked has sold his one seat runabout auto.

It is getting quite the fashion for the young people to stop their automobiles and turn down the lights low and have a lovers' spooning time along the roadway in this section.

The Sunday school picnic held in H. V. Mackey's grove, was well attended by the young and they enjoyed themselves immensely.

A week from the coming Sunday a preaching service will be held again here in the Baptist Church by Rev. Mr. Killey of Milton at 3:30 p. m.

Last Sunday Rev. Mr. Fuller of Milton preached to a good sized congregation in the Baptist Church. Miss Etta Woolsey presided at the organ. Mr. Donnalson and Miss Northrip of Milton sang a duet. C. Meech Woolsey and family and C. S. Northrip and family were from Milton, also Henry Clark, all coming in automobiles. Mr. and Mrs. Frank Craft were present from Marlborough. Mrs. S. B. Wygant also brought several farmerettes with her to the service.

Howard St. John and Wilbur Elting have been to Napanoch for examination this week.

T. B. Odell, who has been seriously ill, is now able to walk around in the house.

Natural Sequence.

In one of his essays Aristotle says this: "I have noticed that land that produces beautiful flowers and luscious fruits also produces a very excellent, intelligent and able class of men and women." Aristotle seemed to look upon this as a sort of coincidence, but later in life he discovered that instead of being a coincidence it was a sequence.

ELLENVILLE ART EXHIBITION OPEN

Works of Numerous Artists Adorn Hunt Memorial Hall—One Must See Pictures to Appreciate Them.

Ellenville, Aug. 8.—The art exhibition opened at Hunt Memorial Hall Tuesday afternoon at 3 o'clock under most favorable auspices. As announced the paintings to the number of 38 occupied places on the walls of this very handsome hall, placed there under the supervision of Artist George Innes, Jr., E. L. Henry, pioneer artist of Cragsmoor, and Artist Frederick S. Dellenbaugh, also of New York and Cragsmoor. This art exhibition was one of the rare treats for the village of Ellenville and vicinity. The work so carefully executed under the able management of Mrs. George Deyo, as chairman, and a corps of efficient assistants. The Musical Club, of which Mrs. Henry Horton is the very efficient president, played an important part in this very unique affair in which everyone was especially interested, as it was a benefit for Red Cross work. On Tuesday afternoon H. W. Coons, on behalf of Artist E. L. Henry, who is so well and favorably known among the leading artist circles everywhere, and is so well known and loved by the Ellenville and vicinity people, presented to the village of Ellenville six of his choice paintings and all local subjects as follows: "The late John S. Billings," Fred Thomas or "Black Fred," old Pete Brown "Peter P.," old Martin Terwilliger, "Aunt Nellie Bloomer, from "Life on her 100th Birthday," and "Joseph Mance." To fully appreciate the pictures one must see them.

The pictures were received by the village president, Frank J. Potter. A brief and exceedingly interesting history of each subject was given by Uriah E. Terwilliger and this interesting feature of the afternoon's entertainment was well received by all attending. The entire catalogues of paintings by the artists represented at this exhibition each and all received its praise due. Two others by Artist Henry, "Coming Home From Church" and "On Rondout Creek Near Napanoch," below the celebrated Yama Farms, attracted much attention. The three paintings of Artist Innes, "The Sunburst," "The Green Meadow," "Sunset on the Marsh," occupied a large space on the wall and must be really viewed by an artist to appreciate the very beautiful work. The following program, as arranged, was given, and the very rare treat of having two special musical artists Wednesday afternoon a fine affair, nothwithstanding the heat that pervaded.

Air Plants.

In some parts of Mexico "air plants" abound. These curious growths are never attached to the soil in any way, but rely for their moisture on the atmosphere. One kind, known as "Spaniard's beard" (Tillandsia usneoides), attaches itself to telephone wires. Very often the growth becomes a positive nuisance, and it is necessary to send men to clear it away. The "Spaniard's beard" has no proper leaves, and in appearance is simply a mass of green-gray threads.—Wide World.

Joke on Editor.

A well-known author, says a New York paragrapher, submitted an article on Zola to a magazine editor. The editor rejected it on the recommendation of one of his assistants, who said it was too pessimistic. He wrote to the author "If you have something else let me have it." The author cut the article into two parts. One he titled "Tolstoy." The other "Balzac." Instead of the works of Zola he substituted the work of Tolstoy and Balzac. The editor accepted both articles.

House Sparrow in England.

In the course of a campaign in England against the swarming and mischievous house sparrow the services of children and "sparrow clubs" were solicited. Bad results were the consequence, since little discrimination was used, and every sort of small bird was mistaken for the proscribed sparrow, and thousands of useful insect eating birds were destroyed, so that exactly the opposite of what was intended was accomplished.

Ventilate Coal Piles.

Unless coal piles are well ventilated spontaneous combustion will follow. To prevent spontaneous combustion, the bureau of mines gives these suggestions: (1) Build a coal bin on dry ground. (2) Store only one size of coal in each pile. (3) Remove fine coal for immediate use if possible. (4) Don't wet and dry the coal alternately while piling. (5) Store the coal in small piles near the place where it is to be stored. (6) Use small bins in storage yards.

Danger in Tainted Mouth.

Bleeding of the teeth, pyorrhea, involves a debilitating gradual loss of blood, and the flow of pus into the mouth, small though it be, is manifestly neither healthful nor pleasant. Medical science gives a tainted mouth as much cause for rheumatism, anemia, neuritis, ulcers of the stomach, acute kidney diseases, diabetes, heart trouble, deformed joints, irritability and general nervous exhaustion, and even pneumonia germs are found in infected gums.

TAKING IN GRIST FOR UNCLE SAM

Scenes in Postmaster DeWitt's Private Office Where He Examines Men, Vises Enemy Alien's Cards, Grills Recruits, Instils Love of Country Into Them and Fear Into Enemy Aliens.

The many calls on Acting Postmaster DeWitt almost daily bring to his office in the central post office building young men desiring to enlist, and those registered for draft seeking to go in as volunteers rather than conscripts, though the government recognizes no distinction between the two. The impression is general, however, that in volunteering one has the chance to get into a preferential service.

Many who come to the postmaster seek advice as to their personal status in this war game. They have their choice, and it is to the credit of the young men of Ulster county that most of them express their preference for some arm of the active service, artillery, navy or commissary. The postmaster with much patience explains to them all the rights they possess, depending on whether they are registrants, and if not, as to their ages.

Would Rid World of Kaiser.

The postmaster's eyes light up with pleasure when he finds that no examining board has an option on the young man's military obligations, and then he warms up to him. Mr. DeWitt talks to him like a father. With convincing earnestness he tells the candidate for enlistment who has proven himself eligible how grateful he, the postmaster, is for the honor the young fellow has conferred on him—the privilege of helping him into the service.

Then the postmaster plunges into a discursive essay on Kaiserism. "That's right, my boy!" he will say arising from his chair and spreading his arms as though about to embrace the young man.

"You want to help rid the world of that fiend the Kaiser, do you? You would show him no mercy? Of course you would not. Well you are the man we want," placing a hand on the young man's shoulder.

"You would fight to make the world safe for democracy? Would you?" insisting on a reply. "You are right. The Kaiser is a devil. You would crush him. Good! Good! Good! You are a true American citizen. This man wants to fight the Kaiser," addressing his deputy who stands by. "He is right. We are going to destroy the Kaiser and militarism."

Would Fight For Liberty.

Postmaster DeWitt's short, simple addresses on patriotism that are delivered to applicants for enlistment are a classic. When he has roundly scored the Kaiser he then talks of liberty—"American liberty. The broadest, most liberal on earth," he tells them. Then comes the third point in his screed, Woodrow Wilson, "one of the greatest of statesmen and leaders the world ever knew," he says. "You would fight to help the president in this war? Of course you would. Woodrow Wilson is our leader."

In his talks to recruits never is one of these points omitted. Standing in a confidential attitude with the recruit, his face all smiles, his eyes lighted with the enthusiasm of his own personal devotion to the president; his soul fired with the patriotism and love for his country, and with the hatred of Kaiserism; scatapaulting every word he utters as though he were hurling hand grenades into the enemy's camp, the postmaster uses no platitudes, indulges in no polished rhetoric, talks as he feels. He simply lets loose for the moment. And he always obtains a close, eager listener, whose face also lights up with the passion for war the postmaster has thus instilled in him.

Sent Out Spoiling to Fight.

He is then given a note for the recruiting officer at Poughkeepsie with remarks touching the applicant's status, his age, kindred, etc., the note most generally concluding with a line or two of comment, as for example:

"A bright young fellow." Here's another: "He hates the Kaiser." And another: "He is a fighter."

If that recruit goes out with any opinion of the Kaiser other than that his Royal Nibs is the blackest fiend the world ever knew, or short of zeal to fight at the drop of the hat, it is no fault of Acting Postmaster DeWitt.

Huskies From Mountains.

Three huskies came in and wanted to enlist in the navy. In reply to queries they stated that they had come down from a mountain resort where they have been working and their homes are—well, after a moment's thought, New York; which may or may not be the truth. New York is made to answer for the common run of strangers in town. Yes, they are under age, they reply. "You'll have to get permission from your parents," he tells them. There his duty with them ends. But they are in a quandary and he sympathizes with them. He hates to lose their services in the navy. They hang over his desk endeavoring to find some way out of the difficulty. The postmaster, whose fund of patience is inexhaustible, questions and suggests but he has to stand by the rules.

Since the recent order of the government requiring enemy aliens, both men and women, to register—residents of the Kingston R. F. D.'s at the post office—a slender stream of men and women has trickled into the postmaster's luxurious office with many curious characters.

With the characteristic disposition of those who may fear that their liberty is imperilled, to argue, protest and explain, they shower the postmaster with broken English in tones ranging the scale of the human voice.

Soothes Enemy Aliens.

It is quite amusing to look on and listen. But if any of them think they are feazing the postmaster they are to be pitied. For they have all their trouble for nothing.

"Now, my dear sir," he will begin; or "Now, dear Madame."

Then he goes on with soothing words that block the protests of the aliens like a stone wall. He establishes an entente at once. And doubtless it heads off many sharp attacks and saves time. When the postmaster has explained what the order means, how easily it is to be complied with and says all that can be said about it, talking naively and in the manner of a close friend, he has the angry alien calmed. He has in fact planted an idea in that alien's mind that sends him away contented. The alien leaves fully convinced that the order does him great honor and with the self-assurance that is inherent in Teuton blood the world over, he is positively convinced that in filling out the blanks given him, depositing the photos and leaving his finger impressions he has upheld the tradition of his ancestors wherein he has beaten the game of another race, even though complying with their demands.

Convinced of Their Errors.

Postmaster DeWitt has positive conviction as to the German race in this country in their relations to this war. He expresses these convictions with ardor an all occasions.

Occasionally one comes before him who the postmaster urges to express freely his personal feelings. Then he takes up the argument and has it out with the Teuton and aways winds up by assuring the party that he is loyal to the core; and the Teuton admits he had been wrong in his opinions.

A German alien applied to Mr. DeWitt for leave to reside at Maple Hill, near Rosendale, in R. F. D. No. 1, Kingston, for two years. Before granting the privilege it is the postmaster's custom to question each alien to get their point of view regarding the war. This alien appeared well educated and said one could imagine how he felt as he was born in Poland. Had been residing in Germany, however, and left there in 1913. "Felt that secret diplomacy should be given up by all nations." Postmaster DeWitt turned his heavy artilliery on the alien then informing him that no secret treatfes were entered into by the United States, that all treaties were debated by the senate and the people here know all the facts before adoption. Also except in times of war secret diplomacy was not engaged in by our representatives at home or abroad. "Any administration which attempted any secret dealings hidden from the public would get short shrift," he said. The young Germanized Pole was asked if he did not "know the teachings of Washington and Jefferson," in reply to which he said he thought that all nations had spies in each other's land in times of peace! Mr. DeWitt assured him "that America does not stoop to such practices." The young alien left with his card vised by the postmaster, who remarked: "Now he has new and American ideas in place of wrong impressions placed in his head by cunning German propaganda before and since the war.

Stands By German-Americans.

Here is the postmaster's opinion on the Germans in this country who are citizens. He has traveled widely through the county and talked freely with German-Americans.

"All appear to want us to win, claiming they love this country best of all" he says. "Few stand up at all for German militarism, none for the Kaiser or the autocrats. Those who say it is necessary to have an army add because the nations there are so closely situated. I have not found one who does not prefer a republic such as this to a monarchy such as Germany.

"I believe the vast body of our citizens of German extraction to be loyal and patriotic towards this country. The exceptions are few and far between. This great body of citizenry should not be made to feel uncomfortable and bear affronts because we are at war with the nations from whence they sprung up because a comparatively few suspects have attempted to slow up our preparations for war. All know that the Kaiser will be defeated largely through our intervention and are assisting with sons, wealth and treasure. A very small number have been called upon by the agents of the Department of Justice owing to disloyal sentiments and have either retracted or have been removed or reprimanded."

HAYWARD WRITES

On Back of Letter Received From King George.

A war letter of unusual interest has just been received in this city from First Lieutenant John M. Hayward, Sig. R. C. A. S., who has many friends in town. Aside from what Lieutenant Hayward writes himself, and he has but just gone overseas after doing much excellent training work in the air service, the fact that the letter is written on the back of one of the letters received from King George is of interest.

The envelope bore the inscription, "A Message to You From His Majesty King George V."

At the top of the letter head appears the royal coat of arms and the address, "Windsor Castle." The contents reads as follows:—

"Soldiers of the United States, the people of the British Isles welcome you on your way to take your stand beside the armies of many nations now fighting in the Old World the great battle for human freedom.

"The Allies will gain new heart and spirit in your company.

"I wish that I could shake the hand of each one of you and bid you God speed on your mission.

GEORGE R. I.

"April, 1918."

LieutenantH ayward writes on the reverse side as follows:

Somewhere in France.
Monday, July 15, 1918.

Dear Mrs. Reed:—

While I have a little time I will write you a few lines on the back of one of the King's own notes. They gave us a few of these when we landed in England, but I haven't had a chance to write and answer it yet.

We had a very pleasant trip over the ocean and as we were on one of the fastest boats, our voyage was speedy and comfortable. Besides, we had the company of over a hundred nurses which made it rather enjoyable.

Our stay in England only was long enough for us to journey across the island. The channel was real rough when we came over, and the railroad ride down here into southwestern France was a great deal rougher.

Before long we'll be moving on somewhere else so there is no telling where I'll be next week.

With best wishes to Mrs. Norton and yourself, I am

Ever affectionately yours,
(Signed) JACK.

Care Chief of Air Service,
American Expeditionary Force.

U.S. DEP'T OF AGRICULTURE HOW TO CAN

GREENS OR POTHERBS

A large number of cultivated and wild greens are edible, and when canned make succulent and valuable food for the winter and spring months. Among the cultivated greens are Swiss chard, kale, Chinese cabbage leaves, upland cress, French endive, cabbage sprouts, turnip tops, young, tender New Zealand spinach, beet tops, dandelion, young, tender dasheen sprouts, native mustard, Russian mustard, collards, and tender rape leaves. Among the wild greens are pepper cress, lamb's-quarter, sour dock, smartweed sprouts, purslane, pokeweed sprouts, dandelion, and milkweed (tender sprouts and young leaves).

Can greens the same day they are picked. Wash clean, sort thoroughly, allowing no foreign weed leaves or other vegetable matter to remain. Rid the greens of all sand, dirt, and dry, decayed or diseased leaves. Place the greens in a crate or cheesecloth and blanch in live steam either in an improvised homemade steamer, or regular commercial steamer, for 15 minutes. Remove the greens and plunge quickly into cold water. Remove to a freshly scalded pan or vessel and cut into convenient lengths. Pack into hot jars, add hot water to fill the container, and season to taste. If desired, a few strips of bacon, chipped beef, beef, or olive oil may be added to the greens. Partially seal jars.

Processing with steam under pressure is recommended. Process pint jars 40 minutes under steam pressure of ten pounds. Seal immediately, cool in a place free from drafts, test for leaks, and store in a dark, cool, dry place.

If the intermittent boiling process is used, boil for one hour on each of three successive days. Loosen the covers before each subsequent boiling, and after each boiling seal completely. Cool, test for leaks, and store.

If the one-period continuous boiling process is used, boil for at least two hours. Seal immediately, cool, test for leaks, and store.—United States Department of Agriculture.

VIGOROUS CLOTHES FOR VIGOROUS DAYS

If there's any one thing about clothes that expresses the wearer, it's the vigor in them. Vigorous styles have the "pep" and "punch" and "get-there" spirit about them; they express strength. It takes real designing ability to put these into a garment and leave the fussiness out. That's why appeal so forcibly to men who are careful in the choice of clothes. Also there's vigor—strength—in the fabrics and the tailoring. These too, are things that men want. And there's vigor in a store policy that safeguards these qualities to you in the face of upset conditions.

ALTAMARI WRITES PATRIOTIC LETTER

Ponckhockie Soldier in France Observes Independence Day By Expressing the Real American Spirit in Letter to a Friend.

The following letter from Private Michael Altamari, Company B, 302nd Ammunition Train, American Expeditionary Forces, France, been received by Miss Sabina C. Geary of No. 20 Gill street:

Somewhere in France,
July 4, 1918.

Dear Friend Sabina:

Your letter received and was glad to hear from you. Everything here in France is progressing very nicely indeed. It causes me grief to inform you that as yet I have not seen your brother. I have written home to your mother, inquiring for Jim's destination. But at the present writing I have not received his address.

This day is of the spirit filled with independence. Our forefathers years ago fought bravely and undauntedly for the same cause I am striving to fulfill today.

Washington, Jackson and Lee, and a thousand others died for Old Glory. Now you can yourself picture my happiness that I am here this day doing my bit.

France must, with the aid of the Allies, and with the brave and undying spirit of the never-forgotten American boys, down Kaiserism, militarism, Junkerism and frightfulness, and eventually crush the German domination forever.

These murderous butchers and barbarians of the so-called highly educated type, who will stoop to the lowest degeneracy in order to attain their end, must, with the mighty and unifying hand that never flinches of the U. S. A., be driven into solitude forever.

Now, Sabina, sincerely trusting that you and your dear folks are in the best of health and spirit, I am your friend,

M. ALTAMARI.

Big Indian, N. Y., Aug. 7, 1918.

Editor Kingston Freeman:

As one of your subscribers and a property owner here for the past 12 years, and also an automobile owner, I would state that the road for seven miles in the town of Shandaken, under the efficient care of George Kelder, roadman, has never been kept in better condition than now, and Mr. Kelder certainly deserves credit for same. I am

Truly yours,

AMATO LIKES CAMP DIX LIFE

Asks Cousin That His Letter Be Published in The Freeman to Reassure Friends at Home.

Miss Susie Altamari of No. 16 Gill street has received the following letter from her cousin, Charles Amato, who is in Camp Dix, N. J.:

Camp Dix,
July 30, 1918.

Dear Cousin Susie:

Just a few lines to let you know that all is well in Camp Dix and we are having a fine time and taking the best of care of ourselves, also all we want to eat. We have plenty of good shows in this camp, the best in the world. I don't believe you would see a show as good as these shows around here if you'd pay $10 for a seat in any opera house in any city in the world.

Let me know how things are in Kingston. I hope you are not lonesome around there. How is your mother and father feeling, and all of your sisters and brothers.

Well, I have no more to say. I'm giving you all my best regards. Walter King and Cicii are sending you all their best regards. I remain your cousin.

CHARLES AMATO,
Co. 30, 153 D. B.,
8th Battalion,
Camp Dix, N. J.

P. S.—I wish you would have this letter published in The Freeman just to let all of the friends in Kingston know that we are all well in Camp Dix.

Food in the Far North.

Reindeer stew and roast water fowl, bear meat or a walrus stew are among the dishes offered in Labrador, Greenland and Faroe islands. In time a taste may be acquired for these things if one is frozen in long enough to be of a grateful spirit. Coarse bread, plenty of codfish, cranberry jam or a blueberry (dried) cake may help matters along.

HIGHLAND.

Highland, Aug. 7.—Dr. Reed, of this place, received a telegram Wednesday last from his son, Royal, who has been in Spartanburg, S. C., stating he had been transferred to Camp Upton, Long Island. The doctor made the trip to the camp to see his son, but could not find him, nor find out anything satisfactry in regard to him, so he does not know whether he has been sent overseas or not.

Eddie Townsend was a week end visitor with his mother and friends. He does not know when he will be sent over.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Dickenson of Elmhurst, Long Island, have been stopping for nearly two weeks at the "Elms" the home of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Harcourt. Mrs. Dickenson was formerly Miss Mame Harrison, who, with her people, resided here for years, and her many friends are always delighted to see her each year as she returns for a short stay.

Mr. and Mrs. George Davis of Milton avenue have been entertaining several guests for a week or more.

Mrs. Philip Schantz and son, Cluett, were shoppers in Poughkeepsie Monday.

S. A. Ferris, A. D. Lent and Captain R. H. Decker were in Poughkeepsie on business the first of the week.

Mrs. Edward Scofield and daughter, Carol, in company with the husband and son, arrived in town Wednesday last from an auto trip to Boston and various other places. They report a very fine trip. The Rev. G. H. Scofield and his father left the latter part of the week for a vacation at Ocean Grove.

Mrs. Myron Terpening was in Poughkeepsie recently, calling on relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. Zophar Aldrich and children of Springfield, Mass., have been spending a short time here with Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Aldrich, parents of the former. They are delighted with living in Springfield. They were residents of this place for a long time, and have many friends here who are always glad to see them.

Dr. Franklin Welker of New York city is now enjoying his vacation. He will spend some time here with his family at their summer home, and will also take trips for pleasure. They have taken an auto trip part of the week to Beaver Falls.

Mrs. Julia Avery of Kingston has been visiting part of the week with Mr. and Mrs. Frank Van Wert of Maple avenue, also Mr. and Mrs. Webster Bond on Vineyard avenue.

Mrs. Isaac Aldrich of Washington avenue was a shopper in Poughkeepsie Wednesday last.

Miss Anna Gans has been out of town over two weeks, enjoying visits with relatives and friends, and from all accounts she had a lovely time.

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Fuller, also Mr. and Mrs. Legrand Haviland are spending some time in the Adirondacks at Burdick's camp. We know they will enjoy every days' stay up there.

Mrs. Rose Francis and daughter, Miss Grace, of Ossining, have been visiting friends here for several days. They are looking fine and the people here were very glad to meet them, as they were residents of this place for few years past.

Miss Mabel Townsend is now here for the remaining portion of her vacation. She spent some of it with friends in Buffalo. She teaches school at Ossining.

Mr. and Mrs. Chester Atkins have guests from New York city for a week.

We hear there are a few from this place who expect to attend the fair at Middletown from August 13th to 16th. We hope the weather will not be as warm as now, yet they always say we must have warm weather for horse racing. There are large premiums to be given and some one's horse will be the winner. They always have fine exhibits and a great crowd of fair visitors.

The U. D. Society held their regular monthly meeting last Saturday at the home of Miss Jennie Wilklow. There was a small attendance.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Knickerbocker left here last Sunday for Unadilla to remain for several weeks, as Mr. Knickerbocker has a good position there, overseeing mason work. Pretty warm for that work.

Mr. and Mrs. F. L. Palmer have returned from Sullivan county, where they spent several days most delightfully.

Mrs. Amelia Elmendorf of Clintondale has been a guest of Mr. and Mrs. George Cornell on White street and on Monday she, with her granddaughter, Ruby Cornell, left for Catskill for a short stay.

Principal E. A. Marsh, who is taking a special course at Albany, was week end guest at his home here. His wife will leave soon for a visit up state with her people, where he will join her later on.

Floyd Gill, who has been ill for a month, does not seem to improve much, we are sorry to say, for he was always so jolly and as he would go to and fro had always a cheerful smile and a good word for all.

Last week Nelson Gill of New Jersey was in town to see his uncle, Floyd Gill, and aso his niece from Pleasant Plains was a guest at the Gill home.

The showers of last week were heavy and the lightning played havoc by burning out the fuses in some places and gave the Central Hudson linemen some extra work for hot weather.

Miss Hazel Sheeley has been home from Raymond Riordon Schoool for a few days, suffering from a severe bilious attack.

Mr. and Mrs. Elias Abrams have had as their guest recently their daughter, Mrs. Jay Deyo, from New York city.

Mr. and Mrs. DeWitt Clearwater have had recent guests from Kingston and Lake Mohonk.

Ideal weather and our town garbed in a fresh summer robe after the grand rain, and with the ladies all smiles as they wended their way last Friday afternoon to the Methodist parsonage, where the Auxiliary Club held their regular meeting. Mrs. F. A. Coon, the pastor's wife, as leading hostess, assisted by Mrs. F. Welder, Mrs. C. Hudson and Mrs. K. Staples, made a fine quartet of entertainers. The membership numbered about 50 present, with several invited guests and two new members accepted, namely Mrs. E. A. Sweet and Mrs. Eustice Wood. The devotional exercises were conducted by the pastor and wife, Rev. and Mrs. Coon, and singing the hymn "Blest be the tie that binds." Then came the president's welcome to members and guests, which was cordial and hearty and all felt that Highland Auxiliary Club, with all it contained, realized in union there is strength, both to the individual and the united body. The outlook is breadth of association, sympathy and work; all these are great benefits to club life. All business was transacted in a satisfactory manner, showing that women are learning the power of organized effort and already yield a great influence in public affairs and these women of the club are working along practical and beneficial lines. They know a church cannot be run or the needs of the parsonage attended to without funds any more than one can run their own home without money, and in these times it takes considerable. These people decided to hold a food sale August 17 on Mrs. J. W. Feeter's lawn, as this place is centrally located. Everyone can get there to purchase some good things to eat. They also planned to hold a supper and sale in fall. A portion of time after business is always devoted to the social side, which everyone so greatly enjoys for it is then at refreshment time that all exchange ideas on different topics and have a good visit with their neighbor. The genial hostesses served delicious fruit salad, wafers, jell cake and raspberry punch and all relished those appetizing things on a hot day. It was late when the ladies said au revoir with expressions of good will for the entertainers and a benediction for the home of pastor and wife, where the club had tarried for several hours.

KINGSTON, N. Y., AUGUST 8, 1918

It is significant that the German have nicknamed fighting Americans "teufel-hunden" (devil-dogs) and that Hindenburg is quoted as saying that the German soldiers will get used to the Americans just as they got used to savage blacks from Africa. Evidently our boys have put fear into the hearts of the Huns.

Assuming that the investigation made by Postmaster DeWitt was thorough and his conclusions correct in regard to recent reports concerning the loyalty of one of the local post office employes there is excellent reason for the implied rebuke to those who are too hasty in making unjust charges. There is every reason to believe that Postmaster DeWitt probed this matter to the bottom that his finding is correct and that the whole affair was brought about by an unbridled tongue. Pro-German! the most insulting epithet that can be applied at this time to any loyal American is being used altogether too freely in the venting of personal spite or as an expression of anger or dislike. Perhaps however if a few more men of the Stirler type were taken in charge by the government loyal Americans would feel more assured that the real Pro-Germans were being taken care of properly and there would be less temptation to individual action.

GERMAN EYES OPENING

The awakening of Germans in America to the truth if we are to judge from a notable utterance of the New York Staats Zeitung goes on apace. When the war began four years ago it was natural enough for most persons of German birth or recent descent in this country to take the side of the Kaiser's militarists. Their unwillingness to believe the accounts of hideous German atrocities was not surprising. It was only to be expected that the hearts of many of them would be cruelly torn when America entered the war and that even then in the case of no few of them a genuine awakening to the real truth would be slow. But appreciably the process is more rapid now. Apparently eyes long obscured now begin to see clearly the whole terrible truth for the New York Staats-Zeitung the most important German-language paper of this country, now assails the militant German autocracy and declares that millions of Germans believe its defeat would be a blessing to them.

In its summing up of the situation the Staats-Zeitung sets forth Germany's supposed war gains and its actual losses. On the credit side it puts the conquering of Belgium and the occupation or dwindling portions of France the enslavement of the Russian people by "an outrageous treaty" the destruction or crippling of Serbia and Montenegro the winning of the support of Turkey and Bulgaria by conniving at the massacre of a million Armenians and other Christians the sinking of millions of tons of shipping by submarines while showing no regard for the lives of non combatants not even women and children. On the debit side Germany has sacrificed "the flower of her arms-bearing youth millions of her sons have fallen been crippled or taken prisoner—losses which no victory can repay." She lost all her colonies and placed a burden of debt upon her people under which they will groan for decades to come. Her domestic and foreign commerce is demoralized and her merchant vessels have disappeared from the sea. The acts of her military commanders and armies have brought the German name into disrepute in America where for two hundred years it had stood high."

This last of the supposed gains is evidently the one most keenly appreciated by persons of German birth or recent descent in this country. To many of them it is a grief a tragedy—however indifferent the Prussian militarists may be—that the German name has been smirched in America where for two centuries it has been respected. No wonder the Staats-Zeitung describes the recognition of this and related facts as "a rude awakening" and goes on to declare that the defeat of the German war machine would be a blessing to Germans and their posterity. The Staats-Zeitung asserts that Germans—doubtless referring to those domesticated in this country—have at last seen through the motives of the Kaiser's militarists "whose purposes are selfish and who aim at the suppression of the ideas of liberty and the forcing of their hated government upon the whole world." The editor of this leading German paper in America desires the world to be relieved of "a burden which lies upon it like an incubus" but no doubt what inevitably concerns him and his friends most is the stigma brought upon the German name in America by Prussian arms, deeds and frightfulness of the most barbarous sort.

LITTLE LAUGHS.

"Did any of your ancestors do anything to cause posterity to remember them?" asked the haughty woman. "I reckon they did," replied the old farmer. "My grandfather put a mortgage on this place that isn't paid off yit."—Boston Transcript.

Story from the Trenches

The Irishman and the Scotsman are usually very good chums in the trenches although they are miles apart in the matter of temperament. The Irishman says all for the present and let the future take care of itself, but the Scotsman is full of care for the future and in every way cautious and canny. Here is an example of their different temperaments.

Pat and Sandy reconnoitring round an old farm house found a war weary chicken. Pat was overjoyed. He was sick of bully and biscuits.

"That's a bit of luck," said Pat. "Sure we'll have a decent supper tonight."

"No no," said Sandy. "Let's keep it till tomorrow. It may lay an egg."—Pittsburgh Chronicle-Telegraph.

Too 'Fur' and Too Long

My brother while home from Camp Grant told this incident that happened recently in the camp. Two of the boys in his company were placed in the same tent one morning and were surprised to see each other.

One said, "Well Mac, what you in here for?"

"Why I'm in here on account of my furlong."

"You don't mean your furlong, you mean furlough."

"No I don't. I went too fur and I stayed too long."—Pittsburgh Post.

Not Too Far

The ambitious young man was interviewing the wealthy father of his sweetheart. Wishing to hand out a few complimentary remarks he began:

"What a magnificent estate you have Mr. Richleigh. Does it go away over to the second ridge there?"

"It does," replied the gruff old parent. "It goes even further than that. But it does not go with my daughter."—Exchange.

About Face

In a London bus a man in civilians's garb rose and offered his seat to a woman. "I never accept favors from slackers," she said witheringly.

"Madam," he replied blandly, "I was all through Gallipoli and if we'd had as much powder as you have on your face we'd have got to Constantinople in no time."—Boston Transcript.

GLASCO

Glasco, Aug. 8.—A fire broke out in an old unoccupied barn on the Magennis brickyard property Monday night at ten o'clock that startled everybody as it lit up the eastern sky with an unusual brilliancy and drew a crowd from every direction in a very short time. The barn was of little value and the contents mostly litter that was quickly consumed. It was feared at first by uptown residents that it was the Washburn buildings below the hill and such a report reached Saugerties and in a few minutes a stream of automobiles came down the Saugerties road that looked like a chain of fire as their headlights whirled around the corner at Fuller's store. But the excitement soon subsided as the loss seemed insignificant.

Frank Brown, with members of his family enjoyed a motor trip through Sullivan county on Sunday and Monday.

A bunch of soldiers' letters from "over there" came to the Glasco post office Monday that must have been delayed somewhere in transit.

What Diamonds Are Doing In This Town

THE following letter will give you some idea of the superior service that are giving right here in your own town.

The beauty about this is that it reflects what every motorist thinks who has tried Diamonds.

Kingston, January 16, 1918.
I have run four Diamond Tires on my Ford car ten months probably 6,000 or 7 000 miles or more good weather, in bad rough roads. I have kept records of tire costs and in the two years Diamonds have far surpassed any other tires I could buy. From now on nothing but Diamonds for mine.
Jas. E. Cullum,
New York State Boiler Inspector.

Only super-tires could give service like that. You can have Diamond mileage for your car for less money than you usually pay for other tires. My stock of sizes is complete.

GERMAN MORALE IS WEAKENING

Boche Flyers Admit Superiority of Allies Who Harass Them Constantly—Tide May Have Turned.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

With the British Army in France, Aug. 7 (4 p. m.)—Evidence of dissatisfaction in the German ranks is accumulating daily.

Germany's military power has passed the zenith and is on the toboggan according to the opinion of military experts.

The turning of the tide came with the Allied counter offensive on the Marne.

But it is a mistake to think that the Boche is defeated, war experts say. The enemy still has strong punches left, but he is tottering under the Allied blows.

Germany's strength is declining weekly as the man power and the resources of the Allies grow, and the Americans arriving on the west front in increasing numbers. The Germans are losing their morale.

One diary taken from a captured German officer, said he was getting men in the late drafts with hardly any training and that "the people at home were taking things horribly easy."

While the German was writing, 17 Allied aeroplanes were dropping bombs on German ammunition dumps while no German machine put in appearance to give battle.

One of the chief complaints of this officer was about the German air service, and it declared that German aviators themselves are now admitting that the Allies are superior in the sky.

The diary continues:

"One Tommy we shot down dropped bombs regularly disturbing the mess. We have lost our best men and those that are left cannot be trusted. There are many shirkers. It has been enough to break the heart to see the fine fellows go down."

RETURNED COMFORT KIT.

Kingston Soldier Rejected at Camp Returns Kit to Local Board.

One of the men of Division 2 who went away with next to the last contingent that left Kingston, and who was rejected at camp on physical grounds, returned his comfort kit just as soon as he got back to Kingston. He even replaced some of the articles he had used.

His example is worth following. Comfort kits are expensive, and if those who are rejected at camp would return the kits they could be used again to good advantage.

Salvage Company Incorporated.

A certificate has been filed in the county clerk's office for the incorporation of the Atlantic Ship Salvage Corporation to engage in the business of locating and recovering sunken ships, floating stranded vessels, etc. Capital stock 2,500 shares, 1,000 preferred shares valued at $100 per share, 1,500 at nominal or par value of $100. Amount of capital to carry on business $107,500. Principal office at Eddyville. The directors for the first year are Paul S. Smith, Samuel B. Howard, Clarence S. Rice, W. A. Rogers, Louis H. Gunther.

Many Have Felt the Same Way.

Nothing is to be said in commendation of the spirit of the man who recently advertised in a London newspaper: "Loud, second-hand gramophone, wanted for reprisals." Many people, however, not only in London but in many other towns the world over, are only too familiar with the circumstances which provoked this vengeful and mistaken determination. Such circumstances certainly constitute one of the things which will need to be "seen to" sooner or later.

RED CROSS BENEFIT.

Allaben and Shandaken Workers Unite in Successful Entertainment.

That Red Cross money is easy to get nowadays and especially so when it comes to the welfare of our soldier boys at the front and in the hospitals and in the prosecution of the war to a finish is the sentiment of the Red Cross workers in the Shandaken and Allaben Auxiliary as is evidenced by the crowd which attended the entertainment and dance given by the ladies of the Red Cross at the Glenbrook on Tuesday evening, August 6. The proceeds after paying all expenses netted the Red Cross $190. Several prizes were won. Among them were a war savings certificate by Miss Anna Belle Turner, also a war savings certificate by Fernandez, of the Glenbrook. A beautiful bank of flowers brought $26.

A short but fine program was rendered. The Picolo Midgets of Phoenicia entertained the audience in their usual lively and interesting manner. Mrs. Ford, a guest of Hotel Allaben, and Helen Bennett, a teacher in Glen Ridge, New Jersey, rendered beautiful selections of song. William D. Brinnier, Jr., of Kingston made a speech which was highly entertaining and full of patriotism and a recitation by children of Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Quenby.

After the entertainment a dance was participated in by all who wished to trip the light fantastic toe until a late hour, when the crowd dispersed. There were many out of town people present, as was very clearly indicated by the number of automobiles on the ground. We extend a vote of thanks to Mr. and Mrs. Gonzalez for their kindness in giving the use of the Glenbrook for this occasion. There are about 80 guests at the Glenbrook who also contributed to the success of the affair.

BOYS CAN'T "HANG AROUND" W. S. DEPOT

A Gang Makes a Practice of Annoying Passengers at Union Station—Two Warned Today—Dugan Says Not Guilty—Other Matters.

For some time past a gang of young men have made it a practice to "hang around" the Union railroad station making a nuisance of themselves and annoying passengers. This morning two of the young men were haled to court to explain what they meant by the practice and were given a warning by Judge Schirick that if any complaints are lodged against them in the future that he would send them away to an institution where they would behave.

Sergeant Hanley informed the court that the boys make the station a "regular hang out" and sleep in taxicabs and in the station. One of the boys early this morning was amusing himself throwing water in the face of a passenger.

The police are determined to break up the gang and from Judge Schirick's attitude this morning they will have the support of the court.

"Buddy" Says "Not Guilty."

Peter Dugan, better know among his friends as "Buddy," is in trouble agina. This time he was arrested on complaint of Jacob Steinhilber of No. 66 Murray street, who claims that while he was sitting in a chair outside his home that "Buddy" came across the street and struck him in the face with his fists.

There was no question but some one beat Jacob up for he had two black eyes, a cut nose and complained of pains in his head.

Dugan when arraigned before Judge Schirick entered a plea of not guilty and wanted to secure an attorney and an adjournment was taken until Saturday morning. He was placed under $50 bonds by the court.

Said He Was Robbed.

This morning a man called at police headquarters stating that while at the West Shore station he had been robbed of $72. He was asked to wait a few minutes until his case could be taken up, but left headquarters before his name and the details of the alleged robbery could be secured.

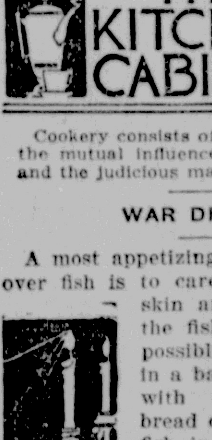
THE KITCHEN CABINET

Cookery consists of the knowledge of the mutual influences of ingredients and the judicious management of heat.

WAR DISHES.

A most appetizing way to use leftover fish is to carefully remove the skin and bones, keeping the fish as unbroken as possible and arrange it in a baking dish. Cover with a sprinkling of bread crumbs, and if the fish is not rich, a little sweet fat in bits. Pour over sufficient cream or rich milk to moisten well and bake until the buttered crumbs on top are well browned. Serve from the baking dish.



French Baked Fish.—Stuff the fish with plain bread dressing, seasoned well with salt and pepper. If there is any left arrange it around the fish. Pour over the fish a can of tomatoes, add a finely minced clove of garlic, add butter, salt and pepper, with a dash of cayenne. Bake until tender.

Holland Rabbit.—Prepare the rabbit for roasting and put an onion inside; place it in a baking pan and pour over it a cupful of boiling water. Cover with another pan and steam one hour. Remove the cover and baste with the following mixture: A cupful of jelly (currant is best), a half cupful of mild vinegar and a tablespoonful of fat, mixed with a teaspoonful of prepared mustard. Serve with baked onions and brown gravy.

Minced Chicken With Green Peppers.—Cover green peppers with boiling water and cook ten minutes; drain, remove the seeds and cut in narrow strips, using a pair of scissors. Melt two tablespoonfuls of butter, add one and a half tablespoonfuls of flour, stir until well blended, then pour on two-thirds of a cupful of liquor in which the chicken was cooked. Bring to a boiling point, add a cupful of diced chicken and the peppers; again boil and serve on pieces of toast.

Chicken Victoria.—Cream two tablespoonfuls of chicken fat with three hard-cooked egg yolks, add a fourth of a cupful of cracker or bread crumbs soaked in a fourth of a cupful of milk fifteen minutes. Pour on gradually one cupful of hot chicken stock and when boiling add a cupful of chicken cut in small bits.

30 DEAD FROM HEAT IN NEW YORK

But Hot Wave is Apparently Breaking as Mercury is Lower Today—Severe Storm There This Morning.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

New York, Aug. 8.—New York today estimated thirty were dead and more than a thousand prostrated at the apparent breaking of the greatest heat wave the east has ever known. It was still intensely hot today, the thermometer officially registering 84 at 10 a. m., but this was 18 degrees below yesterday's record. Although no relief from the heat was promised by the United States weather bureau here or in Washington before tonight a severe electric storm early this morning drove the mercury down ten degrees and greatly relieved the suffering.

ANOTHER HEAT VICTIM REPORTED

Clarence Bilyou of Kingston Street. Overcome by Heat While at Work at Gas Plant Wednesday—Thermemeters Registered 104 Degrees.

Clarence Bilyou of Kingston street, employed at the gas works in Ponckhockie, is the second victim of the heat to be reported in Kingston. He was overcome while at work on Wednesday, and Dr. A. A. Stern was summoned and removed him to his home. His condition today was reported as improving. The other victim reported was Stephen Olds of Downs street, an employe of the Palen plant on Broadway.

Today the heat was also very oppressive and the air was close and muggy. The sky was overcast all day and it threatened to rain at different intervals and while a few drops fell it had not rained to any extent in Kingston up to the time of going to press.

While today was also extremely hot there is no question but that Wednesday was the hottest day so far this season. Wednesday afternoon at 6 o'clock thermometers on the Strand registered 104 dgrees and many of the merchants closed their stores and went home as it was too hot to keep open.

How Mosquitoes Hatch.

We have all heard about the mosquito's habit of laying its eggs on the surface of still water in the form of a raft, which floats about until hatching time arrives. But it is only some species that do that. In the Catskill region, and elsewhere among the mountains of the North and East, there is a kind of mosquito that deposits its eggs during July in dry hollows in the ground. When the following spring arrives the snows melting from the hills fill the hollows with water, and in May the eggs hatch out.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

New York, Aug. 8.—The steel stocks were in brisk demand all through the early trading of the stock market today with those issues making gains over the highest prices touched yesterday. Steel Common reflected continued accumulation, advancing ⅝ to 109⅝, and there was the same persistent buying of Baldwin Locomotive which made that stock a main feature yesterday. Today it was steadily taken, advancing ⅝ to 93½. American Sumatra rose to 132¼. Mexican Petroleum also showed a stronger tone, advancing ¾ to 101½. Utah Copper declined ¾ to 80 and small fractional losses were sustained in other copper shares. Reading was the only active railway issue, advancing ½ to 88⅝.

The new Allied offensive was an incentive for vigorous buying of Steel Common, which moved up one point and similar advances were made in most of the other actives. American Sumatra reacted to 130⅛. Utah moved up 1 point to 81 and Anaconda rallied to 66⅛.

The market closed strong, government bonds unchanged; railway and other bonds steady.

After showing extreme dullness for the greater part of the afternoon the market again became active and strong. Baldwin advanced to 93¾, while Steel Common rallied to 110.

REVIEW OF HUDSON RIVER STEAMBOATS

"Mary Powell" in Her Fifty-Eighth Year—"Norwich" in Service Eighty-Two Years—Keen Competition in the Old Days—Albany Trip Cost Ten Cents.

The August issue of "Gas Logic" contains an interesting article about the old Hudson river steamboats. The "Dean Richmond," "Daniel Drew," "Chauncey Vibbard," and others of the old-time galaxy of picturesque boats are mentioned.

The article is as follows:

There is a glamour and a romance about the old Hudson river steamboats that attaches to no other fresh-water craft in the world. Perhaps the only other passenger steamers of their kind that have achieved anything like their distinction and have rivaled them as a factor of importance in the lives of Americans were the uncouth fire-spitting Mississippi river boats of ante-bellum days celebrated chiefly by Mark Twain. The humorist's pseudonym is itself a relic of the days when he was pilot on one of those strange, shadowy vessels of America's past.

The old-time boats that plied our own North river and those that steamed up and down the mighty but muddy "Father of Waters" had much in common. Both were familiar and cheering sights to the people who lived along their watery path-ways. Both were vitally important and necessary to the lives of our grandsires and great-grandsires, to whom their daily coming was for years almost the sole link between them and the busy haunts of men in the cities. For the steamboat, be it remembered was the first actor on the stage of American transportation and, long before the coming of the railroads, furnished a luxurious and regular mode of travel.

Today when our Hudson river boats are veritable swift-moving palaces, built and appointed on a scale of magnificence undreamed of in the old days, their coming or going causes scarcely a ripple on the smooth surface of New York's existence. Noiselessly, almost as if by magic, they guide northward past the Palisades and vanish into the mists of Tappan Zee in a few minutes after leaving their piers. Few see them depart or give them more than a passing glance or thought.

But a half century or so ago when the Daniel Drew or the Chauncey Vibbard pulled out into mid-stream, thousands turned out to do her homage and watch her out of sight, while the boat's progress northward to Albany was a continuous march of triumph. To the residents of the upper Hudson valley, who greeted her with fluttering handkerchiefs and shouts of Godspeed her passage was the event of the day. As one historian of the river truly says, the people "knew just when to expect the boats, set their clocks, said their prayers and went to bed by them."

There has recently been a marked revival of interest in the old-time Hudson river boats, prompted by the happy discovery by some of the older generation of New Yorkers that the Mary Powell and some of the other famous river-craft of their youth are still doing valiant service on the river and showing little sign of their advanced age.

No more popular steamboat ever plowed the blue waters of the Hudson or any other body of fresh water, for that matter, than the Mary Powell. For many years she bore undisputed the proud title, "Queen of the Hudson," and even today in her fifty-eighth year she still retains many of her queenly qualities of grace and beauty and speed. This fine old pleasure-craft, rich in tender associations for many New Yorkers still living, has seen her most active days but she is still very much alive as an extra boat of the Day Line. All of her old friends will be glad to know that she is in fine health "going strong," and likely to be seen in her old river haunts for some years to come.

Another old-timer of great interest—far older than the Mary Powell, is the Norwich, which is still doing duty in the upper Hudson around Rondout after eighty-two years of service. Originally a passenger boat, she has since about the middle of the last century been used as a tow boat, and every spring, for many years, broke a clear path through the river ice, thus acquiring the title of "Ice King." About ten years ago she sank after a collision and the president of the company that owned her decided that it would be too costly to raise her. The president's wife, however, had a different idea and besides was a woman of decision.

"Samuel," she demanded, "do you mean to say that you aren't going to raise the Norwich? Why, that boat made your fortune for you. By all means, raise her."

And the Norwich was raised and had an important part in the Hudson-Fulton celebration that took place a little later. She is said to be the oldest steamboat in the world.

What a train of delightful associations is opened to the mind by the mere mention of the Dean Richmond, the James W. Baldwin, the Daniel Drew, the Armenia, the Chauncey Vibbard, the St. John, the Mary Powell and others of the old-time galaxy of Hudson river boats.

Like the Mary Powell, the Daniel Drew and the Vibbard were very fast, and the three made notable records to Albany. Many an old New Yorker recalls the thrill with which as a passenger he took part in one of these speed tests. The "days of the real sport" on the Hudson, however, came before the Civil War, when in the heat of a race captains often forgot to make their regular up-river stops for passengers. Early competition was so bitter that at one time the Albany trip cost ten cents, while later it is said one could even ride free.

One of the chief claims of fame of the Armenia, for years a great favorite, was her steam calliope, with which she used to "waken the dead" as she swept upstream. The musical (?) attachment was finally adjudged an expensive nuisance and removed.

Other famous names on the Hudson's honor roll are the Alida, Francis Skiddy, Thomas Powell, Rip Van Winkle, New World, Cornelius Vanderbilt, Chrystenah (still running) and, last but not least, Fulton's Clermont, parent of them all.

Compared with the new river boats the old-timers were crude and primitive. Yet they were marvels in their day; they gave untold joy pleasure to thousands, and were worthy forerunners of the race of splendid river Titans of today.

FEW MEN NEEDED FOR THE NAVY

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Washington, Aug. 8.—Rear Admiral Palmer, chief of the bureau of navigation of the navy department, appearing before the senate military affairs committee today on the new man power bill, said that its provisions would not lighten the enlistments in the navy. The navy complement was practically filled, he said, having between 430,000 and 440,000 men. Its requirements from now on would be only about 15,000 men a month, chiefly for the merchant marine, he said.

SAUGERTIES.

Saugerties, Aug. 8.—The annual school meeting was held in the high school building Tuesday evening, August 6. Edward J. Lewis was chosen chairman of the meeting. UNDERNEATH THE CITY HALL DOME

It is expected that there will be a record breaking attendance at the adjourned session of the city fathers next Tuesday evening when the question of whether the gas company will be granted permission to booost the rate of gas 30 cents a thousand will be taken up, as the public has been invited to attend and give their views in the matter.

The gas company, under contract, is supplying the city with gas at the rate of $1.15 a thousand feet, and want permission to change the contract giving them the right to charge $1.45. As everybody's pocketboook is touched in the matter, a warm session may be expected. It is only hoped that the warm spell may be broken before the evening of the session.

A chauffeur's examination will be held at the city hall the morning of August 30, at 9:30 o'clock.

There is one thing to be thankful this warm weather and that is the fact that the city drinking water after it has been allowed to run a short time from the faucet, is fairly cold.

The public drinking fountains for horses, which were closed on account of glanders, are sorely missed by the horses about town, and it is hoped that conditions will shortly warrant the water being turned on.

Your Jelly For Our Wounded Boys'

With every thrifty housewife making jelly and in other ways preserving native fruits for winter consumption, the call just received from the Red Cross should find a quick and generous response. The Ulster County Chapter has been notified to ask the people of the community for gifts of jelly to be sent to our base hospitals in this country, for our wounded men when they come back to us, which will be all too soon, now. Send or take your jelly to the Red Cross Headquarters as soon as convenient, and the chapter will ship the same to such base hospital or hospitals as is designated by the Atlantic Division. Incidentally, plan for making additional jelly from now on, to keep the wounded men thus remembered from home. Extreme care should be taken that all jars of jelly are tightly sealed and in good shape for shipment. This call is for the women of all of Ulster county.

LATTINGTOWN.

Lattingtown, Aug. 8.—Freaks of weather, last Sunday being real cool and the wearing of a fall overcoat, the wearing not being uncomfortable, and on Monday after the thermometer standing 100 in the shade and over.

Bernard Chilleroy, an Italian young man has received his card to go to a training camp.

Mr. Alexander and a friend are camping out on the Warren family farm. They are from New York.

Arnold Macked has sold his one seat runabout auto.

It is getting quite the fashion for the young people to stop their automobiles and turn down the lights low and have a lovers' spooning time along the roadway in this section.

The Sunday school picnic held in H. V. Mackey's grove, was well attended by the young and they enjoyed themselves immensely.

A week from the coming Sunday a preaching service will be held again here in the Baptist Church by Rev. Mr. Killey of Milton at 3.30 p. m.

Last Sunday Rev. Mr. Fuller of Milton preached to a good sized congregation in the Baptist Church. Miss Etta Woolsey presided at the organ. Mr. Donnalson and Miss Northrip of Milton sang a duet. C. Meech Woolsey and family and C. S. Northrip and family were from Milton, also Henry Clark, all coming in automobiles. Mr. and Mrs. Frank Craft were present from Marlborough. Mrs. S. B. Wygant also brought several farmerettes with her to the service.

Howard St. John and Wilbur Elting have been to Napanoch for examination this week.

T. B. Odell, who has been seriously ill, is now able to walk around in the house.

Natural Sequence.

In one of his essays Aristotle says this: "I have noticed that land that produces beautiful flowers and luscious fruits also produces a very excellent, intelligent and able class of men and women." Aristotle seemed to look upon this as a sort of coincidence, but later in life he discovered that instead of being a coincidence it was a sequence.

SASS BROTHERS ARE GRATEFUL

The following letter was recently received by the Kingston Shipbuilding Corporation from a former employe:

Camp Wadsworth,
July 14, 1918.

I am sending you a picture of my brother and of myself. Although it is not as good as I would like to have it, I hope you will accept it, as this is about the only way that I can think of to show my appreciation for kindness you have shown me while on my furlough to Kingston. We are expecting to leave here soon for over there.

All the boys are well and are just tickled to death to get away from the hot, sunny south.

Hoping you will accept my little token of appreciation for your kindness which you extended to me while I was home.

I am sincerely,
CORP. FRANK SASS,

It is always a problem to keep old papers and magazines looking neat in the basement. Make a rack on the order of a swing shelf, having the shelf in slats about two inches wide and three inches apart. The papers can then be tied up without lifting from the shelf. War Conditions Met by Most Miles per Dollar

THE new demands for economy in motor car operation found Firestone ready. Tire thrift has for years been coupled with Most Miles per Dollar.

Motorists who had not known Firestone superiorities before are now turning to them in this period of careful buying of all necessities.

Study these advantages of the improved Firestone Fabric Tire:

① Deeper cushion stock protects body of tire against injury and increases resilience.

② More rubber between layers gives greater resilience and added protection against internal friction.

③ Reinforcement in sidewall strengthens bead and places the bending point where tire is strongest.

④ Thick, tough tread affords longer surface wear.

Ask your dealer to show you this cross-section of the Firestone Fabric Tire so you can see for yourself its superiorities. Then try a Firestone Tire on your car. It's real economy.

TAKING IN GRIST FOR UNCLE SAM

Scenes in Postmaster DeWitt's Private Office Where He Examines Men, Vises Enemy Alien's Cards, Grills Recruits, Instils Love of Country Into Them and Fear Into Enemy Aliens.

The many calls on Acting Postmaster DeWitt almost daily bring to his office in the central post office building young men desiring to enlist, and those registered for draft seeking to go in as volunteers rather than conscripts, though the government recognizes no distinction between the two. The impression is general, however, that in volunteering one has the chance to get into a preferential service.

Many who come to the postmaster seek advice as to their personal status in this war game. They have their choice, and it is to the credit of the young men of Ulster county that most of them express their preference for some arm of the active service, artillery, navy or commissary. The postmaster with much patience explains to them all the rights they possess, depending on whether they are registrants, and if not, as to their ages.

Would Rid World of Kaiser.

The postmaster's eyes light up with pleasure when he finds that no examining board has an option on the young man's military obligations, and then he warms up to him. Mr. DeWitt talks to him like a father. With convincing earnestness he tells the candidate for enlistment who has proven himself eligible how grateful he, the postmaster, is for the honor the young fellow has conferred on him—the privilege of helping him into the service.

Then the postmaster plunges into a discursive essay on Kaiserism. "That's right, my boy!" he will say arising from his chair and spreading his arms as though about to embrace the young man.

"You want to help rid the world of that fiend the Kaiser, do you? You would show him no mercy? Of course you would not. Well you are the man we want," placing a hand on the young man's shoulder.

"You would fight to make the world safe for democracy? Would you?" insisting on a reply. "You are right. The Kaiser is a devil. You would crush him. Good! Good! Good! You are a true American citizen. This man wants to fight the Kaiser," addressing his deputy who stands by. "He is right. We are going to destroy the Kaiser and militarism."

Would Fight For Liberty.

Postmaster DeWitt's short, simple addresses on patriotism that are delivered to applicants for enlistment are a classic. When he has roundly scored the Kaiser he then talks of liberty—"American liberty. The broadest, most liberal on earth," he tells them. Then comes the third point in his screed, Woodrow Wilson, "one of the greatest of statesmen and leaders the world ever knew," he says. "You would fight to help the president in this war? Of course you would. Woodrow Wilson is our leader."

In his talks to recruits never is one of these points omitted. Standing in a confidential attitude with the recruit, his face all smiles, his eyes lighted with the enthusiasm of his own personal devotion to the president; his soul fired with the patriotism and love for his country, and with the hatred of Kaiserism; catapaulting every word he utters as though he were hurling hand grenades into the enemy's camp, the postmaster uses no platitudes, indulges in no polished rhetoric, talks as he feels. He simply lets loose for the moment. And he always obtains a close, eager listener, whose face also lights up with the passion for war the postmaster has thus instilled in him.

Sent Out Spoiling to Fight.

He is then given a note for the recruiting officer at Poughkeepsie with remarks touching the applicant's status, his age, kindred, etc., the note most generally concluding with a line or two of comment, as for example:

"A bright young fellow." Here's another: "He hates the Kaiser." And another: "He is a fighter."

If that recruit goes out with any opinion of the Kaiser other than that his royal Nibs is the blackest fiend the world ever knew, or short of zeal to fight at the drop of the hat, it is no fault of Acting Postmaster DeWitt.

Huskies From Mountains.

Three huskies came in and wanted to enlist in the navy. In reply to queries they stated that they had come down from a mountain resort where they have been working and their homes are—well, after a moment's thought, New York; which may or may not be the truth. New York is made to answer for the common run of strangers in town. Yes, they are under age, they reply. "You'll have to get permission from your parents," he tells them. There his duty with them ends. But they are in a quandary and he sympathizes with them. He hates to lose their services in the navy. They hang over his desk endeavoring to find some way out of the difficulty. The postmaster, whose fund of patience is inexhaustible, questions and suggests but he has to stand by the rules.

Since the recent order of the government requiring enemy aliens, both men and women, to register—residents of the Kingston R. F. D.'s at the post office—a slender stream of men and women has trickled into the postmaster's luxurious office with many curious characters.

With the characteristic disposition of those who may fear that their liberty is imperilled, to argue, protest and explain, they shower the postmaster with broken English in tones ranging the scale of the human voice.

Soothes Enemy Aliens.

It is quite amusing to look on and listen. But if any of them think they are feazing the postmaster they are to be pitied. For they have all their trouble for nothing.

"Now, my dear sir," he will begin; or "Now, dear Madame."

Then he goes on with soothing words that block the protests of the aliens like a stone wall. He establishes an entente at once. And doubtless it heads off many sharp attacks and saves time. When the postmaster has explained what the order means, how easily it is to be complied with and says all that can be said about it, talking naively and in the manner of a close friend, he has the angry alien calmed. He has in fact planted an idea in that alien's mind that sends him away contented. The alien leaves fully convinced that the order does him great honor and with the self-assurance that is inherent in Teuton blood the world over, he is positively convinced that in filling out the blanks given him, depositing the photos and leaving his finger impressions he has upheld the tradition of his ancestors wherein he has beaten the game of another race, even though complying with their demands.

Convinced of Their Errors.

Postmaster DeWitt has positive conviction as to the German race in this country in their relations to this war. He expresses these convictions with ardor an all occasions.

Occasionally one comes before him who the postmaster urges to express freely his personal feelings. Then he takes up the argument and has it out with the Teuton and aways winds up by assuring the party that he is loyal to the core; and the Teuton admits he had been wrong in his opinions.

A German alien applied to Mr. DeWitt for leave to reside at Maple Hill, near Rosendale, in R. F. D. No. 1, Kingston, for two years. Before granting the privilege it is the postmaster's custom to question each alien to get their point of view regarding the war. This alien appeared well educated and said one could imagine how he felt as he was born in Poland. Had been residing in Germany, however, and left there in 1913. "Felt that secret diplomacy should be given up by all nations." Postmaster DeWitt turned his heavy artilliery on the alien then informing him that no secret treaties were entered into by the United States that all treaties were debated by the senate and the people here know all the facts before adoption. Also except in times of war secret diplomacy was not engaged in by our representatives at home or abroad. "Any administration which attempted any secret dealings hidden from the public would get short shrift," he said. The young Germanized Pole was asked if he did not "know the teachings of Washington and Jefferson," in reply to which he said he thought that all nations had spies in each other's land in times of peace! Mr. DeWitt assured him "that America does not stoop to such practices." The young alien left with his card vised by the postmaster, who remarked: "Now he has new and American ideas in place of wrong impressions placed in his head by cunning German propaganda before and since the war.

Stands By German-Americans.

Here is the postmaster's opinion on the Germans in this country who are citizens. He has traveled widely through the county and talked freely with German-Americans.

"All appear to want us to win, claiming they love this country best of all" he says. "Few stand up at all for German militarism, none for the Kaiser or the autocrats. Those who say it is necessary to have an army add because the nations there are so closely situated. I have not found one who does not prefer a republic such as this to a monarchy such as Germany.

"I believe the vast body of our citizens of German extraction to be loyal and patriotic towards this country. The exceptions are few and far between. This great body of citizenry should not be made to feel uncomfortable and bear affronts because we are at war with the nations from whence they sprung up because a comparatively few suspects have attempted to slow up our preparations for war. All know that the Kaiser will be defeated largely through our intervention and are assisting with sons, wealth and treasure. A very small number have been called upon by the agents of the Department of Justice owing to disloyal sentiments and have either retracted or have been removed or reprimanded."

HAYWARD WRITES

On Back of Letter Received From King George.

A war letter of unusual interest has just been received in this city from First Lieutenant John M. Hayward, Sig. R. C. A. S., who has many friends in town. Aside from what Lieutenant Hayward writes himself, and he has but just gone overseas after doing much excellent training work in the air service, the fact that the letter is written on the back of one of the letters received from King George is of interest.

The envelope bore the inscription, "A Message to You From His Majesty King George V."

At the top of the letter head appears the royal coat of arms and the address, "Windsor Castle." The contents reads as follows:—

"Soldiers of the United States, the people of the British Isles welcome you on your way to take your stand beside the armies of many nations now fighting in the Old World the great battle for human freedom.

"The Allies will gain new heart and spirit in your company.

"I wish that I could shake the hand of each one of you and bid you God speed on your mission.

GEORGE R. I.

"April, 1918."

Lieutenant Hayward writes on the reverse side as follows:

Somewhere in France.
Monday, July 15, 1918.

Dear Mrs. Reed:—

While I have a little time I will write you a few lines on the back of one of the King's own notes. They gave us a few of these when we landed in England, but I haven't had a chance to write and answer it yet.

We had a very pleasant trip over the ocean and as we were on one of the fastest boats, our voyage was speedy and comfortable. Besides, we had the company of over a hundred nurses which made it rather enjoyable.

We were in England only was long enough for us to journey across the island. The channel was real rough when we came over, and the railroad ride down here into southwestern France was a great deal rougher.

Before long we'll be moving on somewhere else so there is no telling where I'll be next week.

With best wishes to Mrs. Norton and yourself, I am

Ever affectionately yours,
(Signed) JACK.

Care Chief of Air Service,
American Expeditionary Force.

U.S. DEP'T OF AGRICULTURE

HOW TO CAN

GREENS OR POTHERBS

A large number of cultivated and wild greens are edible, and when canned make succulent and valuable food for the winter and spring months. Among the cultivated greens are Swiss chard, kale, Chinese cabbage leaves, upland cress, French endive, cabbage sprouts, turnip tops, young, tender New Zealand spinach, beet tops, dandelion, young, tender dasheen sprouts, native mustard, Russian mustard, collards, and tender rape leaves. Among the wild greens are pepper cress, lamb's-quarter, sour dock, smartweed sprouts, purslane, pokeweed sprouts, dandelion, and milkweed (tender sprouts and young leaves).

Can greens the same day they are picked. Wash clean, sort thoroughly, allowing no foreign weed leaves or other vegetable matter to remain. Rid the greens of all sand, dirt, and dry, decayed or diseased leaves. Place the greens in a crate or cheesecloth and blanch in live steam either in an improvised homemade steamer, or regular commercial steamer, for 15 minutes. Remove the greens and plunge quickly into cold water. Remove to a freshly scalded pan or vessel and cut into convenient lengths. Pack into hot jars, add hot water to fill the container, and season to taste. If desired, a few strips of bacon, chipped beef, beef, or olive oil may be added to the greens. Partially seal jars.

Processing with steam under pressure is recommended. Process pint jars 40 minutes under steam pressure of ten pounds. Seal immediately, cool in a place free from drafts, test for leaks, and store in a dark, cool, dry place.

If the intermittent boiling process is used, boil for one hour on each of three successive days. Loosen the covers before each subsequent boiling, and after each boiling seal completely. Cool, test for leaks, and store.

If the one-period continuous boiling process is used, boil for at least two hours. Seal immediately, cool, test for leaks, and store.—United States Department of Agriculture.

All young animals need freedom of action. So do children. In making their clothes, keep this in mind.

We must not let the boys at the front do all the sacrificing, but meet sacrifice at the front with sacrifice at home.

Milk is a valuable animal food which every housekeeper should use in her cookery in every way possible.

Many people never knew how wholesome and palatable is corn syrup until they had to on war rations of sugar.

There are plenty of beans in this country, and beans are wholesome and nutritious. Serve more beans.

There are still some housekeepers who do not know how versatile is cornmeal. They should send to the State College of Agriculture at Ithaca and get a copy of R. C. F. H. 115, "Cornmeal Once a Day."

VIGOROUS CLOTHES FOR VIGOROUS DAYS

If there's any one thing about clothes that expresses the wearer, it's the vigor in them. Vigorous styles have the "pep" and "punch" and "get-there" spirit about them; they express strength. It takes real designing ability to put these into a garment and leave the fussiness out. That's why appeal so forcibly to men who are careful in the choice of clothes. Also there's vigor—strength—in the fabrics and the tailoring. These too, are things that men want. And there's vigor in a store policy that safeguards these qualities to you in the face of upset conditions.

ALTAMARI WRITES PATRIOTIC LETTER

Ponckhockie Soldier in France Observes Independence Day By Expressing the Real American Spirit in Letter to a Friend.

The following letter from Private Michael Altamari, Company B, 302nd Ammunition Train, American Expeditionary Forces, France, been received by Miss Sabina C. Geary of No. 20 Gill street:

Somewhere in France,
July 4, 1918.

Dear Friend Sabina:

Your letter received and was glad to hear from you. Everything here in France is progressing very nicely indeed. It causes me grief to inform you that as yet I have not seen your brother. I have written home to your mother, inquiring for Jim's destination. But at the present writing I have not received his address.

This day is of the spirit filled with independence. Our forefathers years ago fought bravely and undauntedly for the same cause I am striving to fulfill today.

Washington, Jackson and Lee, and a thousand others died for Old Glory. Now you can yourself picture my happiness that I am here this day doing my bit.

France must, with the aid of the Allies, and with the brave and undying spirit of the never-forgotten American boys, down Kaiserism, militarism, Junkerism and frightfulness, and eventually crush the German domination forever.

These murderous butchers and barbarians of the so-called highly educated type, who will stoop to the lowest degeneracy in order to attain their end, must, with the mighty and unifying hand, that never flinches of the U. S. A., be driven into solitude forever.

Now, Sabina, sincerely trusting that you and your dear folks are in the best of health and spirit, I am your friend,

M. ALTAMARI.

Food in the Far North.

Reindeer stew and roast water fowl, bear meat or a walrus stew are among the dishes offered in Labrador, Greenland and Faroe islands. In time a taste may be acquired for these things if one is frozen in long enough to be of a grateful spirit. Coarse bread, plenty of codfish, cranberry jam or a blueberry (dried) cake may help matters along.

HIGHLAND.

Highland, Aug. 7.—Dr. Reed, of this place, received a telegram Wednesday last from his son, Royal, who has been in Spartanburg, S. C., stating he had been transferred to Camp Upton, Long Island. The doctor made the trip to the camp to see his son, but could not find him, nor find out anything satisfactry in regard to him, so he does not know whether he has been sent overseas or not.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Dickenson of Elmhurst, Long Island, have been stopping for nearly two weeks at the "Elms" the home of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Harcourt. Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Fuller, also Mr. and Mrs. Legrand Haviland are spending some time in the Adirondacks at Burdick's camp. We know they will enjoy every days' stay up there.

Mrs. Rose Francis and daughter, Miss Grace, of Ossining, have been visiting friends here for several days. They are looking fine and the people here were very glad to meet them, as they were residents of this place for few years past.

Miss Mabel Townsend is now here for the remaining portion of her vacation. She spent some of it with friends in Buffalo. She teaches school at Ossining.

Mr. and Mrs. Chester Arkins have guests from New York city for a week.

We hear there are a few from this place who expect to attend the fair at Middletown from August 13th to 16th. We hope the weather will not be as warm as now, yet they always say we must have warm weather for horse racing. There are large premiums to be given and some one's horse will be the winner. They always have fine exhibits and a great crowd of fair visitors.

The U. D. Society held their regular monthly meeting last Saturday at the home of Miss Jennie Wilkiow. There was a small attendance.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Knickerbocker left here last Sunday for Unadilla to remain for several weeks, as Mr. Knickerbocker has a good position there, overseeing mason work. Pretty warm for that work.

Mr. and Mrs. F. L. Palmer have returned from Sullivan county, where they spent several days most delightfully.

Mrs. Amelia Elmendorf of Clintondale has been a guest of Mr. and Mrs. George Cornell on White street and on Monday she, with her granddaughter, Ruby Cornell, left for Catskill for a short stay.

Principal E. A. Marsh, who is taking a special course at Albany, was week end guest at his home here. His wife will leave soon for a visit up state with her people, where he will join her later on.

Floyd Gill, who has been ill for a month, does not seem to improve much, we are sorry to say, for he was always so jolly and as he would go to and fro had always a cheerful smile and a good word for all.

Last week Nelson Gill of New Jersey was in town to see his uncle, Floyd Gill, and also his niece from Pleasant Plains was a guest at the Gill home.

Mr. and Mrs. DeWitt Clearwater have had recent guests from Kingston and Lake Mohonk.

Ideal weather and our town garbed in a fresh summer robe after the grand rain, and with the ladies all smiles as they wended their way last Friday afternoon to the Methodist parsonage, where the Auxiliary Club held their regular meeting. Mrs. F. A. Coon, the pastor's wife, as leading hostess, assisted by Mrs. F. Welder, Mrs. C Hudson and Mrs K. Staples, made a fine quartet of entertainers. The membership numbered about 50 present, with several invited guests and two new members accepted, namely Mrs. E. A. Sweet and Mrs. Eustice Wood. The devotional exercises were conducted by the pastor and wife, Rev. and Mrs Coon, and singing the hymn "Blest be the tie that binds." Then came the president's welcome to members and guests, which was cordial and hearty and all felt that Highland Auxiliary Club, with all it contained, realized in union there is strength, both to the individual and the united body. The outlook is breadth of association, sympathy and work; all these are great benefits to club life. All business was transacted in a satisfactory manner, showing that women are learning the power of organized effort and already yield a great influence in public affairs and these women of the club are working along practical and beneficial lines. They know a church cannot be run or the needs of the parsonage attended to without funds any more than one can run their own home without money, and in these times it takes considerable. These people decided to hold a food sale August 17 on Mrs. J. W. Feeter's lawn, as this place is centrally located. Everyone can get there to purchase some good things to eat. They also planned to hold a supper and sale in fall. A portion of time after business is always devoted to the social side, which everyone so greatly enjoys for it is then at refreshment time that all exchange ideas on different topics and have a good visit with their neighbor. The genial hostesses served delicious fruit salad, wafers, jell cake and raspberry punch and all relished those appetizing things on a hot day. It was late when the ladies said au revoir with expressions of good will for the entertainers and a benediction for the home of pastor and wife, where the club had tarried for several hours.

GERMAN MORALE IS WEAKENING

Boche Flyers Admit Superiority of Allies Who Harass Them Constantly—Tide May Have Turned.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

With the British Army in France, Aug. 7 (4 p. m.)—Evidence of dissatisfaction in the German ranks is accumulating daily.

Germany's military power has passed the zenith and is on the toboggan according to the opinion of military experts.

The turning of the tide came with the Allied counter offensive on the Marne.

But it is a mistake to think that the Boche is defeated, war experts say. The enemy still has strong punches left, but he is tottering under the Allied blows.

Germany's strength is declining weekly as the man power and the resources of the Allies grow, and the Americans arriving on the west front in increasing numbers. The Germans are losing their morale.

One diary taken from a captured German officer, said he was getting men in the late drafts with hardly any training and that "the people at home were taking things horribly easy."

While the German was writing, 17 Allied aeroplanes were dropping bombs on German ammunition dumps while no German machine put in appearance to give battle.

One of the chief complaints of this officer was about the German air service, and it declared that German aviators themselves are now admitting that the Allies are superior in the sky.

The diary continues:

"One Tommy we shot down dropped bombs regularly disturbing the mess. We have lost our best men and those that are left cannot be trusted. There are many shirkers. It has been enough to break the heart to see the fine fellows go down."

RETURNED COMFORT KIT.

Kingston Soldier Rejected at Camp Returns Kit to Local Board.

One of the men of Division 2 who went away with next to the last contingent that left Kingston, and who was rejected at camp on physical grounds, returned his comfort kit just as soon as he got back to Kingston. He even replaced some of the articles he had used.

His example is worth following. Comfort kits are expensive, and if those who are rejected at camp would return the kits, they could be used again to good advantage.

Salvage Company Incorporated.

A certificate has been filed in the county clerk's office for the incorporation of the Atlantic Ship Salvage Corporation to engage in the business of locating and recovering sunken ships, floating stranded vessels, etc. Capital stock 2,500 shares, 1,000 preferred shares valued at $100 per share, 1,500 at nominal or par value of $100. Amount of capital to carry on business $107,500. Principal office at Eddyville. The directors for the first year are Paul S. Smith, Samuel B. Howard, Clarence S. Rice, W. A. Rogers, Louis H. Gunther.

Many Have Felt the Same Way.

Nothing is to be said in commendation of the spirit of the man who recently advertised in a London newspaper: "Loud, second-hand gramophone, wanted for reprisals." Many people, however, not only in London but in many other towns the world over, are only too familiar with the circumstances which provoked this vengeful and mistaken determination. Such circumstances certainly constitute one of the things which will need to be "seen to" sooner or later.

action in France on July 18. Private Maxwell enlisted May 28, 1917, in Poughkeepsie, and was assigned to Co. B, 9th Infantry, being later sent to France. He was one of the first Ulster county boys sent overseas.

RED CROSS BENEFIT.

Allaben and Shandaken Workers Unite in Successful Entertainment.

That Red Cross money is easy to get nowadays and especially so when it comes to the welfare of our soldier boys at the front and in the hospitals and in the prosecution of the war to a finish is the sentiment of the Red Cross workers in the Shandaken and Allaben Auxiliary as is evidenced by the crowd which attended the entertainment and dance given by the ladies of the Red Cross at the Glenbrook on Tuesday evening, August 6. The proceeds after paying all expenses netted the Red Cross $190. Several prizes were won. Among them were a war savings certificate by Miss Anna Belle Turner, also a war savings certificate by Fernandez, of the Glenbrook. A beautiful bank of flowers brought $26.

A short but fine program was rendered. The Picolo Midgets of Phoenicia entertained the audience in their usual lively and interesting manner. Mrs. Ford, a guest of Hotel Allaben, and Helen Bennett, a teacher in Glen Ridge, New Jersey, rendered beautiful selections of song. William D. Brinnier, Jr., of Kingston made a speech which was highly entertaining and full of patriotism and a recitation by children of Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Quenby.

After the entertainment a dance was participated in by all who wished to trip the light fantastic toe until a late hour, when the crowd dispersed. There were many out of town people present, as was very clearly indicated by the number of automobiles on the ground. We extend a vote of thanks to Mr. and Mrs. Gonzalez for their kindness in giving the use of the Glenbrook for this occasion. There are about 80 guests at the Glenbrook who also contributed to the success of the affair.

BOYS CAN'T "HANG AROUND" W. S. DEPOT

A Gang Makes a Practice of Annoying Passengers at Union Station—Two Warned Today—Dugan Says Not Guilty—Other Matters.

For some time past a gang of young men have made it a practice to "hang around" the Union railroad station making a nuisance of themselves and annoying passengers. This morning two of the young men were haled to court to explain what they meant by the practice and were given a warning by Judge Schirick that if any complaints are lodged against them in the future that he would send them away to an institution where they would behave.

Sergeant Hanley informed the court that the boys make the station a "regular hang out" and sleep in taxicabs and in the station. One of the boys early this morning was amusing himself throwing water in the face of a passenger.

The police are determined to break up the gang and from Judge Schirick's attitude this morning they will have the support of the court.

"Buddy" Says "Not Guilty."

Peter Dugan, better know among his friends as "Buddy," is in trouble again. This time he was arrested on complaint of Jacob Steinhilber of No. 66 Murray street, who claims that while he was sitting in a chair outside his home that "Buddy" came across the street and struck him in the face with his fists.

There was no question but some one beat Jacob up for he had two black eyes, a cut nose and complained of pains in his head.

Dugan when arraigned before Judge Schirick entered a plea of not guilty and wanted to secure an attorney and an adjournment was taken until Saturday morning. He was placed under $50 bonds by the court.

Said He Was Robbed.

This morning a man called at police headquarters stating that while at the West Shore station he had been robbed of $72. He was asked to wait a few minutes until his case could be taken up, but left headquarters before his name and the details of the alleged robbery could be secured.

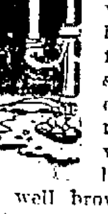
THE KITCHEN CABINET

Cookery consists of the knowledge of the mutual influences of ingredients and the judicious management of heat.

WAR DISHES.

A most appetizing way to use left-over fish is to carefully remove the skin and bones, keeping the fish as unbroken as possible and arrange it in a baking dish. Cover with a sprinkling of bread crumbs, and if the fish is not rich, a little sweet fat in bits. Pour over sufficient cream or rich milk to moisten well and bake until the buttered crumbs on top are well browned. Serve from the baking dish.



French Baked Fish.—Stuff the fish with plain bread dressing, seasoned well with salt and pepper. If there is any left arrange it around the fish. Pour over the fish a can of tomatoes, add a finely minced clove of garlic, add butter, salt and pepper, with a dash of cayenne. Bake until tender.

Holland Rabbit.—Prepare the rabbit for roasting and put an onion inside; place it in a baking pan and pour over it a cupful of boiling water. Cover with another pan and steam one hour. Remove the cover and baste with the following mixture: A cupful of jelly (currant is best), a half cupful of mild vinegar and a tablespoonful of fat, mixed with a teaspoonful of prepared mustard. Serve with baked onions and brown gravy.

Minced Chicken With Green Peppers.—Cover green peppers with boiling water and cook ten minutes; drain, remove the seeds and cut in narrow strips, using a pair of scissors. Melt two tablespoonfuls of butter, add one and a half tablespoonfuls of flour, stir until well blended, then pour on two-thirds of a cupful of liquor in which the chicken was cooked. Bring to a boiling point, add a cupful of diced chicken and the peppers; again boil and serve on pieces of toast.

Chicken Victoria.—Cream two tablespoonfuls of chicken fat with three hard-cooked egg yolks, add a fourth of a cupful of cracker or bread crumbs soaked in a fourth of a cupful of milk fifteen minutes. Pour on gradually one cupful of hot chicken stock and when boiling add a cupful of chicken cut in small bits.

30 DEAD FROM HEAT IN NEW YORK

But Hot Wave is Apparently Breaking as Mercury is Lower Today—Severe Storm There This Morning.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

New York, Aug. 8.—New York today estimated thirty were dead and more than a thousand prostrated at the apparent breaking of the greatest heat wave the east has ever known. It was still intensely hot today, the thermometer officially registering 84 at 10 a. m., but this was 18 degrees below yesterday's record. Although no relief from the heat was promised by the United States weather bureau here or in Washington before tonight a severe electric storm early this morning drove the mercury down ten degrees and greatly relieved the suffering.

ANOTHER HEAT VICTIM REPORTED

Clarence Bilyou of Kingston Street. Overcome by Heat While at Work at Gas Plant Wednesday—Thermometers Registered 104 Degrees.

Clarence Bilyou of Kingston street, employed at the gas works in Ponckhockie, is the second victim of the heat to be reported in Kingston. He was overcome while at work on Wednesday, and Dr. A. A. Stern was summoned and removed him to his home. His condition today was reported as improving. The other victim reported was Stephen Olds of Downs street, an employe of the Palen plant on Broadway.

Today the heat was also very oppressive and the air was close and muggy. The sky was overcast all day and it threatened to rain at different intervals and while a few drops fell it had not rained to any extent in Kingston up to the time of going to press.

While today was also extremely hot there is no question but that Wednesday was the hottest day so far this season. Wednesday afternoon at 6 o'clock thermometers on the Strand registered 104 dgrees and many of the merchants closed their stores and went home as it was too hot to keep open.

How Mosquitoes Hatch.

We have all heard about the mosquito's habit of laying its eggs on the surface of still water in the form of a raft, which floats about until hatching time arrives. But it is only some species that do that. In the Catskill region, and elsewhere among the mountains of the North and East, there is a kind of mosquito that deposits its eggs during July in dry hollows in the ground. When the following spring arrives the snows melting from the hills fill the hollows with water, and in May the eggs hatch out.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

New York, Aug. 8.—The steel stocks were in brisk demand all through the early trading of the stock market today with those issues making gains over the highest prices touched yesterday. Steel Common reflected continued accumulation, advancing ⅝ to 109⅝, and there was the same persistent buying of Baldwin Locomotive which made that stock a main feature yesterday. Today it was steadily taken, advancing ⅝ to 93½. American Sumatra rose to 132¼. Mexican Petroleum also showed a stronger tone, advancing ¾ to 101½. Utah Copper declined ¾ to 80 and small fractional losses were sustained in other copper shares. Reading was the only active railway issue, advancing ½ to 88⅝.

The new Allied offensive was an incentive for vigorous buying of Steel Common, which moved up one point and similar advances were made in most of the other actives. American Sumatra reacted to 130⅛. Utah moved up 1 point to 81 and Anaconda rallied to 66⅛.

The market closed strong; government bonds unchanged; railway and other bonds steady.

After showing extreme dullness for the greater part of the afternoon the market again became active and strong. Baldwin advanced to 93¾, while Steel Common rallied to 110.

SASS BROTHERS ARE GRATEFUL

The following letter was recently received by the Kingston Shipbuilding Corporation from a former employe:

Camp Wadsworth,
July 14, 1918.

I am sending you a picture of my brother and of myself. Although it is not as good as I would like to have it, I hope you will accept it, as this is about the only way that I can think of to show my appreciation for kindness you have shown me while on my furlough to Kingston. We are expecting to leave here soon for over there.

All the boys are well and are just tickled to death to get away from the hot, sunny south.

Hoping you will accept my little token of appreciation for your kindness which you extended to me while I was home.

I am sincerely,

War Conditions Met by Most Miles per Dollar

THE new demands for economy in motor car operation found Firestone ready. Tire thrift has for years been coupled with Most Miles per Dollar.

Motorists who had not known Firestone superiorities before are now turning to them in this period of careful buying of all necessities.

Study these advantages of the improved Firestone Fabric Tire:

① Deeper cushion stock protects body of tire against injury and increases resilience.

② More rubber between layers gives greater resilience and added protection against internal friction.

③ Reinforcement in sidewall strengthens bead and places the bending point where tire is strongest.

④ Thick, tough tread affords longer surface wear.

Ask your dealer to show you this cross-section of the Firestone Fabric Tire so you can see for yourself its superiorities. Then try a Firestone Tire on your car. It's real economy.
